MAC DONALD ACCEPTS BRITISH PREMIERSHIP

NICOLAI LENINE, DICTATOR OF RUSSIA, DEAD OF HEART DISEASE

COOLIDGE STANDS PAT FOR MELLON PLAN; HINTS AT VETO FOR OTHERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—President Coolidge has determined to go down with colors flying rather than compromise on the Mellon program of tax reduction.

Efforts of Republican leaders in Congress to win over the White House to a departure from the rates laid down in the Mellon bill have resulted in absolute failure, it became known today. The leaders have been informed that the White House expects all "regular" Republicans to support the Mellon bill.

It was announced at the White House today that President Coolidge has turned down all suggestions of compromising on the maximum surtax, and it was further stated, significantly, that even if Congress compromises the position of President Coolidge will still be unchanged —a definite hint of veto.

TEAPOT DOME GIVES PROMISE OF BEING A GREAT DISGRACE

Son of Roosevelt and C. D. Wahlberg Resign Posts With Sinclair As Result of Exposures.

LID IS BLOWN OFF

"Willing and ready to go at any time," was exSecretary Albert B. Fall's reply today when told by International News Service that a subpoena had been telegraphed to him from Washington for further questioning relative to the leasing of naval reserve lands.

"I have a general idea of what is going on up there but they are welcome to question me as much as they like,' Fall said.

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 22.—The lid was off Teapot Dome today.

Criminal prosecution of some of the men involved in the leasing of the naval oil reserve by ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to H. F. Sinclair was declared to be possible as a result of the startling revelations made to the Senate public committee by Archie Roosevelt, son of the late President, and G. D. Wahlberg, both of whom have resigned

COOLIDGE WANTS A FULL AND COMPLETE TEAPOT DOME PROBE

By KENNETH W. CLARK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 22.—President Coolidge today took a hand in the Teapot Dome "mess."

It was announced at the White House that the President personally has ordered the Department of Justice to make a full and complete investigation into the circumstances surrounding the leasing of the naval oil reserve by ex-Secretary of the Interior Fall to Harry F. Sinclair. President Coolidge, it was stated, is directing the Department of Justice in charge of the administration of the matter, and if criminal prosecutions are warranted they will be undertaken.

The highly sensational revelations made the past week are understood to have moved the President to intervene in the case.

Clothes Ignite From Forge, Blacksmith Is Burned To Death

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 22. (INS.)—Horribly burned about the face and body, when his clothing ignited while warming himself before a forge last night, Lawrence A. Hebb, 18, died at the Washington county hospital early today.

Hebb was wheeling ashes from the blacksmith shop to the yard and went into the shop to get warm. In some manner his sleeve caught fire. Excited, he rushed into the yard where the high wind fanned his clothing into a mass of flames.

Before the blaze could be extinguished his clothes were burned from his body.

Parochial School Will Be Closed For Two Weeks Instead of But One Week

The St. Francis parochial school will be closed for at least two weeks, instead of one week, as was published in last evening's Progress

Sister Marie Agnes, of the faculty who is suffering from diphtheria, is holding her own very nicely today. The other sisters remained in the convent instead of moving into the parsonage and because of this fact will have to keep out of the school room for the two weeks required by the rules of the Board of Health in the case of all persons in contact or in the same house with a patient suffering with diphtheria.

Of course if any one of the remaining sisters develop the disease during the period of the present quarantine the quarantin will be extended and the school kept closed until danger of further spread of the disease is past.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY

A chicken and waffle supper was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Leas on Martin street last evening, the occasion being the double birthday celebration of Mrs. Leas and Thomas Duckett. A birthday cake was one of the features. Covers were laid for twenty and an enjoyable evening was had.

MOORE BABY GETS ALONG FINE TODAY

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 22. (INS.)—Little Cletus Moore, eight months old, of St. Louis, no longer hiding a carpet tack in his left lung is "as well as can be expected under the circumstances" today. So said his nurse, Mrs. Lela A. Parrish. She added that she is waiting for doctors orders to leave for St. Louis with Cletus and experts the orders to come by Thursday.

Borah, Russia Champion In America, Says Death Of Lenine Is a Body Blow

Washington, Jan. 22. (INS.)—News of the death of Nicolai Lenine, the "iron man" of Russia, created a profound sensation in Washington today. There was much speculation as to the effect his death will have on Russia's future.

Senator Wm. E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, the Champion of Russian recognition in Congress, said in a statement to International News Service he considred Lenine's death a grevious blow to Russia.

LABORITE ASSUMES PREMIERSHIP OF BRITISH EMPIRE

London, Jan. 22 (INS)—Miss MacDonald, daughter of the new Prime Minister designate visited Downing Street, official residence of the Premier, this afternoon to view her new home.

Mrs. Baldwin, wife of the retiring Prime Minister, graciously received her. She showed her over the house saying, "You see we are all prepared to go. I hope you will like it here."

Mrs. MacDonald, wife of Ramsey MacDonald, died 12 years ago leaving three daughters. MacDonald is 57 years old.

London, Jan. 22.—Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the British Labor party, completed the formation of Great Britain's first Labor government this evening, within less than 12 hours after the Tory Premier, Stanley Baldwin, had resigned.

The following personnel of the new cabinet was officialy announced:

Premier and Foreign Secretary—J. Ramsay MacDonald.

Lord Privy Seal—John Robert Clynes.

Lord Chancellor—Lord Haldane.

Chancellor of the Exchequer—Phillip Snowden.

Home Secretary—Arthur Henderson.

Secretary of State for Colonies—J. H. Thomas.

Moscow, Jan. 22.—Official announcement was made today that Nicolai Lenine, President of the Council of Peoples' Commissarics (The Russian Red Government) is dead. He died last night at his country estate with his wife at the bedside. Lenine had been sinking for some time, owing to heart weakness induced by paralysis of the side.

As soon as news of Lenine's death was circulated here flags were placed at half mast upon all the Government buildings and upon many private houses.

The Soviet cabinet conferred upon plans for the funeral which will be held Saturday.

The greatest public demonstration of sorrow Russia has ever known in her history is anticipated.

The body will be brought here (according to present plans) to rest in state at the Kremlin before it is interred in red square, where the body of John Reed, American writer and Socialist, lies buried.

Word of Lenine's death reached London in a code message from Moscow. Plans are under way for a great state funeral Saturday.

Lenine was the real power behind the Moscow government. His powers were even more dictatorial than those of the czar that ruled before he came into authority as head of the Russian government in 1917.

Lenine's death came at a time when his colleague, Leon Trotzky, as spectacular a revolutionary figure as himself, was ill and at war with the central executive committee of the Communist party.

Disease and death thus removes from the arena two of the most active figures that set the red flag flying over Russia.

Specialists had been summoned from Germany from time to time. They succeeded in prolonging Lenine's life but could not save it.

During most of the time he was ill, he lived in a modest villa on his coun-

ANNUAL REPORT OF HEALTH SECRETARY IS COMMENDABLE

Drop In Both Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria; Typhoid Kept Out of Borough by Vigilance.

VERY FINE RECORD

For the year our records show 114 cases of communicable diseases under quarantine, which is 46 more than were reported for 1922. The following table shows the number of cases of the several diseases in each year:

	1922	1923
Diphtheria	86	71
Scarlet Fever	55	31
Typhoid Fever	0	2
Measles	144	121
Chicken Pox	35	151
Whooping Cough	31	62
Mumps	47	6
	398	444

Note the difference for the better in the comparisons for diphtheria and scarlet fever. There were two cases of typhoid fever, but a history and survey of each case convinced the Board they were not contracted from local conditions. Four deaths from diphtheria and two from whooping cough occurred in 1923.

One hundred and fortytwo quarts of flies were caught in the 25 fly traps placed during the past year.

The sanitary inspection made last summer took the census of livestock and poultry. A tabulation of their figures show there are 139 horses and mules, 71 cows, and 22,270 chickens in Clearfield, distributed as follows:

	Horses and Mules	Cows	Chickens
First Ward	17	7	1450
Second Ward	55	39	5727
Third Ward	44	22	8973
Fourth Ward	23	9	6110

AUTO THIEVES VISIT NO LESS THAN EIGHT PHILIPSBURG BUSINESS PLACES DURING NIGHT; THEIR LOOT IS LIGHT

Frightened Away By the Night Watchman At The Guelick Garage After They Had Broken In Others.

WERE CRUDE WORKERS

A pair of automobile bandits slipped quietly into Philipsburg last night and before being chased out of town by a night watchman they wakened at one of the garages they entered, got into and robbed or attempted to rob no less than eight different business places.

One man, who appeared to be a crude workman or who had insufficient tools and medicaments for his purpose, did the breaking and entering while his companion remained in an automobile, with the engine running on Pine street ready to assist the cracksman in a speedy getaway in case of discovery, and which did work out according to their plan.

The places visited were the Olympic Pool Room, Walton's Drug Store, Centre County Lumber Company's office, Beal & Fleagle Garage, Frank Beals' Garage, J. O. Reed's Grist Mill, Philipsburg Hardware Company and the Gulich Garage.

The robber did not succeed in getting much loot for his trouble. At the Walton Drug Store he secured $12. The Olympic Pool Room yielded $7.00 more. The sum of $6.13 was taken from the Centre County Lumber Company's office, while the cash register at the Beal & Fleagal Garage yielded $5.00 in change.

At the Beals Garage, Reed's Grist Mill and Philipsburg Hardware Company offices attempts were made to open the safes of these concerns, but the burglar was not expert enough to get any one of them open. Each safe

PRESIDENT ROSSER TO SERVE COUNCIL NAMES COMMITTEES

Beahan, Gulick, Jay and Adams Head More Important Branches of Borough Government.

FIRE EQUIPMENT IS TOPIC OF INTEREST

The first regular meeting of the Borough Council as organized for the years 1924 and 1925 was held in the council chamber of the Borough building last evening. President Rosser presided and all the following members were present: Messrs Adams, Schenck, McKee, Poorman, Sykes, Jay and Beahan.

Committees Are Named

President Rosser announced the committee assignments for the year as follows:

Highways—J. S. Beahan, Chairman; O. E. Poorman, Geo. M. Risser.

Finance—Ashley J. Gulich, chairman, Blair W. Sykes, Ralph McKee.

Public Property, Lights—Ira Jay, Chairman, F. M. Ellis, Dean H. Bloom.

Sewers—F. R. Adams, Chairman, Edward Schenck, A. G. Bowes.

Annual Report of Board of Health

The annual report of Secretary Gaulin of the Board of Health was read to Council. The document denoted the activities of the guardians of the public health and showed a satisfactory condition throughout the year. It will be noted there was an increase in communicable diseases quarantined in 1923 over 1922, but it will also be seen that this increase was in the annoying minor ailments while there was a distinct betterment in the battle against scarlet fever and diphtheria.

It will be noted too, that while the Board of Health was given an appropriation of $1957 for the year their expenditures were about $300 less than that total. They asked for and were given a similar appropriation for 1924.

DISTRICT NO. TWO MINERS TO MEET AT ALTOONA THIS YEAR

Will Convene March 11 To Follow Lead of the International Meet At Indianapolis, Ind.

BROPHY MAY BE A SEEKER OF HONORS

For the first time in many years the miners of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, will hold their convention outside of DuBois, Pa., having selected Altoona, Pa., as the place of meeting for the coming convention the first session being the one March 11. What District No. 2 has always known as the delegates a hearty welcome and accorded them the best kind of treatment, at their last convention, they decided that, just for the sake of a change, they would go to Altoona this year.

What will be done at the convention depends entirely upon what is going to be worked out at the convention to be held at Indianapolis, Ind., this week. So far as the local district is concerned, no schedule of demands has been arranged at this time. Work in District No. 2 has been in bad shape for more than a year, with both the miner and the operator suffering as a result. What little demand has existed for coal from this district has been supplied by working the men of some of the mines on part time. Many of the mines have been closed tight for

FIRE DESTROYS A BIG GARAGE AND AUTOS AT WASHINGTON, PA.

Washington, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS.)—Damage estimated at more than $100,000 was caused here today by fire which razed the building of the L. H. Rainsford Automobile Company and 17 tractors stored in it.

The blaze started in the repair room from an unknown origin and had gained great headway before it was discovered. Washington and Jefferson College students were called out to help fight the flames but repeated explosions of the gasoline, the high wind and the intense cold hampered their work. The students drove more than 50 machines from the building.

UNIONTOWN JURY FREES MOTHER WHO AVENGED ATTACK ON CHILD

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS).—The unwritten law which permits a mother to defend her children was upheld by a jury in criminal court here today when, in the most sensational verdict ever returned in Fayette County courts, they acquitted Mrs. Ida McNeil for the shooting of Henry Thomas, accused of attacking her daughter, aged nine.

The verdict read:

"Without any intention of condoning or encouraging defiance of the laws of the commonwealth, we heartily approve in this particular case of this mode of dealing with human fiends and recommend that Mrs. McNeil be exonerated."

The jury was composed of two women, a clergyman, the Mayor of Uniontown and two newspapermen.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

According to reports reaching Clearfield the mules used about the mines in the southeastern section of Clearfield county are finding this really the "winter of their discontent." Humane Officer T. B. Reilley was called to Ramey today (Monday) to investigate a story to the effect that a more or less prominent coal operator of that community had been guilty of gross cruelty to a trio of mules which he had been using about his mines. When the coal business went on the bum, it is said, the poor mules were left to shift for themselves. Two of the animals are alleged to have died of starvation while the third was brutally killed to save it from a similar fate.

In addition to this report (a) those who claim to know say there are many mules in the coal regions from Osceola Mills around to Coalport that are slowly starving to death and that a general investigation into the conditions surrounding these poor beasts of burden should be made by the humane authorities throughout the region mentioned.

Things appear to be breaking Governor Pinchot's way with a rush these days. Giffy stirred up the animals and got nation-wide publicity (which he hates) by his Anti-Saloon League speech last week, while the "organization" was forced to bow to his wishes in the national delegate pre-primary scrap, and now the Supreme Court decides the state administrative code is as good law as one could expect from a Pennsylvania legislature and thus Giffy and Cornelia continue to reign supreme at Harrisburg.

More than 873,000 lives have been saved, drunkenness has been reduced to a hitherto unknown level and $74,000,000 has been saved in contributions formerly made to charitable societies alone for the care of destitute families in the first four years of prohibition, according to the Anti-Saloon League of America.

The claims of the Anti-Saloon League are contained in resolutions unanimously adopted at its recent national convention.

A bonus, adjusted compensation, or whatever you may call it, Mellon tax plan to the contrary notwithstanding, not only appealed to but was given all our war heroes of the past. They were not too proud to accept it, either, as the following from 1st Lieut. Ulysses Simpson Grant will show:—

State of Michigan,
County of Wayne, ss:

On the 6th day of November, A. D. 1850, personally appeared before me, a justice of the peace within and for the county and State aforesaid, First Lieut. Ulysses S. Grant, aged twenty-eight years, an officer of the Fourth Regiment United States Infantry, in the service of the United States, who, being duly sworn according to law, declares that he is the identical Ulysses S. Grant who was a second lieutenant and regimental quartermaster in the Fourth Regiment of United States Infantry, commanded by Col. William Whistler, in the war with Mexico declared to exist on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1846, that he graduated at West Point, in the State of New York, about the 30th day of June, A. D. 1843, and continued in actual service during the entire period of the war, as will be shown by the muster rolls of the field and staff of the Fourth Regiment of United States Infantry.

He makes this declaration for the purpose of obtaining the bounty lands to which he may be entitled under the "act granting bounty lands to certain officers and soldiers who have been engaged in the military service of the United States," passed September 28, 1850.

U. S. GRANT,

State of Michigan,
County of Wayne, ss:

I, Silas A. Bagg, clerk of said county of Wayne, do hereby certify that George Clancy, whose name is affixed to the affidavit of the annexed instrument and therein written, was, at the time of taking affidavit, a justice of the peace for said county, duly elected and qualified, and duly authorized to take the affidavit: And further, that I am well acquainted with the handwriting of such justice and verily believe that the signature to the said jurat is genuine.

Times are changing, tis said, while people too, are not what they used to be. We remember back quite some few years ago, when Philipsburg girls were not only good to look upon, but were lovingly warm-hearted and more or less of the sort of clinging vine type But, alas for fond recollections. While we can't speak from personal disillusionment in that regard, Philipsburg girls must have changed even more than anybody who knew them back in the late '80's as there along had any reason to expect. To prove our contention just listen to this soulful appeal from Philipsburg to T. R. Weimer one of the Clearfield County Commissioners:

Philipsburg, Pa., Jan. 20

Mr. Weimer,

Dear sir:—Have you any girls in the County Home that you will leave out. I would like to have one for a wife. If you have let me know and I will come out there and marry her. Let me know at once.

Yours lonely
J. R. SMITH.

Just think of that, girls. And this is leap year, too. How chilly those Philipsburg girls must be these days.

Mannington, West Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I was born in Marion County and still live in it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true." —Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. Only THOR Can Iron As You Can!

To make it worth while for you to iron with an electric ironer, the ironer must iron as well as you can, and do it at a saving to you of time and labor. This Thor alone can do through features not found in other machines. "Finger flick" shoe (ironing surface) control that brings the shoe to the article being ironed, just as you iron by hand, is one of them.

THE HOLMWOOD

An English Type House Sure to Please.

In the Holmwood we have an especially charming English type of home sure to delight the builder who wants large rooms offering plenty of opportunity for decoration and the placing of furniture Those who like to entertain a great deal will be quick to see the possibilities in this plan. The exterior invites an informal method of planting.

A small terrace at the front has a solid stucco wall making a semi-private porch from which we enter the hall where we see a pleasing stairway and neat closet arrangement. From the hall we reach the living room at one side and the dining room at the other. The dining room is made cheerful by a front bay of three windows. The living room is the feature of this plan and should delight those who enjoy a spacious well-furnished room. It has a fireplace of proportions sufficient to permit the burning of large logs and the width of the room allows the placing of comfortable furniture before it without crowding. There are windows on three sides including a three-windowed bay in front.

One could hardly ask for a better kitchen than the one planned here. It has cross ventilation from every direction Three windows light the sink, drainboard and working table. The range is well away to itself. There is a closet for brooms, pots, and pans, and a pantry with compartments for all the equipment of the culinary workshop. In the rear entrance is a place for the refrigerator and here stairs lead one to a cellar arranged with separate rooms for laundry, furnace, and vegetable and coal storage.

Two bedrooms and the bath comprise the entire second floor. Both bedrooms have large closets and one has a good storage closet in addition. The dormers and side windows assure comfortable sleeping quarters.

Built of concrete masonry and with walls finished in buff-colored stucco with red concrete tile or cement-asbestos shingle roof, this house will not only be permanent and fire-safe, but will be warm and hospitable in appearance.

however was badly damaged in the attempt to open it.

Local safe expert J. M. Malloy, of South Fourth street, was called to Philipsburg this morning to open the vault at the Hardware Company's office, the door of which had been badly jammed and wrecked.

The burglar visited the Gulich garage about ten minutes to 4 o'clock this morning. He gained an entrance but was heard ransacking the office of the garage by Chester ("Beaney") Hutchinson, the night watchman. When Hutchinson appeared on the scene the burglar aimed a blow at his head with a short iron bar he carried as a "jimmy." Hutchinson threw up his arm to ward off the blow, catching the full force of the iron bar on his forearm.

With that the burglar ran from the garage pursued by Hutchinson. He ran rapidly to where the car was standing on Pine street, hopped in and the car speeded away into the darkness.

Think Same Gang Worked Here Too

Burglars entered the New York Central station last evening and failed in an attempt to open the safe in the ticket office. They proved themselves rank amateurs by attempting to batter the safe door open with a heavy hammer they found in the station. The door of the safe was badly hammered but resisted all efforts to get it open.

The Gingery Hardware Company's building, corner Fourth and Pine streets, was also entered during the night. A pair of hair clippers, a safety razor and several pearl handled pocket knives was among the loot secured.

A visit was also paid by the marauders to the Dufton Hardware Company's store, but Dufton's were unable to determine whether anything of value had been taken from their stock.

The burglars who did the work here, are thought to have been the same pair that made a wholesale raid on Philipsburg business places last evening, as the methods of procedure in both places are identical.

REEDSVILLE CHAPEL BEING REPAIRED

Repairs are being made to the Presbyterian chapel at Reedsville this week, which are designed to make this little church as comfortable as any other in town. Last Sunday on account of the cold and the condition of the heating apparatus, it was impossible to hold services in the chapel. A new heating apparatus is being installed this week and other necessary repairs are being made about the building and all promises to be in good shape for next Sunday.

The good people interested in the chapel are giving a supper this evening at the Reedsville hose house, the proceeds of which will be used in paying for the repairs mentioned and all those who desire to assist this worthy object should attend.

Miss "Peg" Isenburg was taken quite violently ill at her room at the home of Mrs. Cecil Leavy on Cherry street Sunday night last, and is now a patint at the Clearfield Hospital Her condition is much improved at this time.

mines, with no person at work except the superintendent and the pumper. This is true of a large number of the mines. Many of the small mines are completely out of business.

If a convention at Indianapolis can present any plan which will improve conditions in the mining industry, it will find a hearty welcome in this field, both by miner and operator Advance reports from the western city indicate that the convention will ask for a 20 per cent raise in wages, and six-hour day for five days a week. If such action is taken there, it will be presented at the convention of the local miners, and such changes made as will meet local conditions.

mit given the Borough for the dumping of sewage into the river, which denoted that the Department had changed its mind somewhat and would not be so exacting in the future in this regard. The Linden street extension permit is still pending.

Want Gulich Avenue Paved

A delegation of citizens interested in Gulich avenue consisting of Horace Flegal, Paul Stauffer, Lynn Stewart and Luther Hubler was present and asked Council to consider the paving of this street when making up their budget or schedule of improvements for the year. The request was referred to the Highway department

Wants Fire Plug Installed

John Myers was present and asked to have another fire plug installed on William street in the vicinity of the Gearhart Planing mill. Referred to Property Committee.

Firemen Ask For Pamper

Fire Chief A. P Kreher and Assistant Earl Whitehill were before Council on matters of interest to the fire department. They asked that repairs be made to Third Ward chemical tanks, also to the furnaces in both the Third and Fourth Ward fire houses.

Chief Kreher again informed Council that they were without means to get the steamer to fires and asked that some means be secured by which this necessary piece of apparatus could be made mobile. He also said a triple combination pumper, chemical and hose, should be cured for No. 1 Company on account of its central location in the business section of the town. The chief also said that a number of citizens had already spoken to him on the subject and had signified their willingness to contribute toward the purchase of such a piece of apparatus. President Rosser informed the Chief that the matter of this equipment would be given early consideration by Council.

Getting Ready For Spring

The President directed the different committees to get busy on affairs in their department and come to next meeting prepared to assist in formulating the year's improvement budget. In this connection Chairman Beahan of the Highway Department recommended that a new truck be purchased for street work and he was directed to prepare his recommendation as to kind, capacity and price at next meeting, when action would be taken on the matter in order that the equipment might be ready for business when spring opened up.

Constipation lays you wide open to other diseases—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Don't take chances with constipation! This terrible ailment can send poisons into your system which may lead to serious diseases. The longer those poisons accumulate, the more dangerous they become. Begin at once to free your system from them.

Eat Kellogg's Bran. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. It is nature's own way to make the intestine function naturally and regularly—for Kellogg's Bran acts exactly as nature acts. It makes forever unnecessary the use of habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, has proved successful when all else has failed This is because Kellogg's is ALL bran. Doctors everywhere agree that only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective—they recommend Kellogg's Bran.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal You will like it. You will enjoy the delicious nut like flavor—the exclusive Kellogg flavor.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in wonderful bran muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is the road back to health. It is made in Battle Creek and is served in individual packages at the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

THE HABIT OF "GOING ALONG"

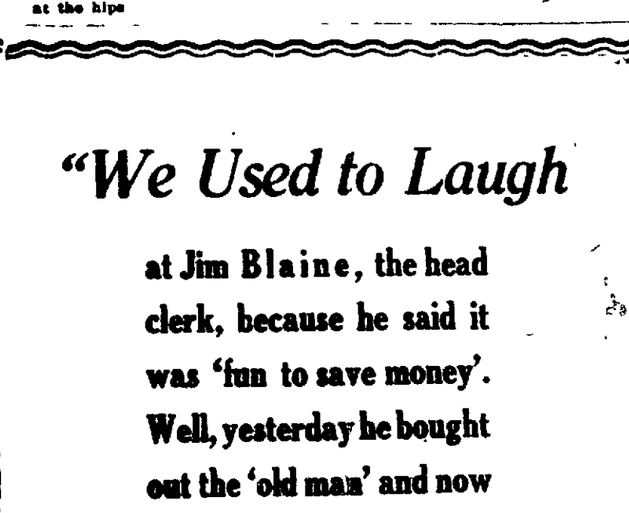
How many men and women really think for themselves? More important still, how many both think and act for themselves? If these questions are pertinent, then they also are important. They strike at the very root of character. They concern not only the individual but the community, the state, the nation. The habit of "going along" is an easy habit to fall into. It is a dangerous habit.

The habit of "going along" retards development of character and lowers efficiency.

This country of ours affords the greatest field in the world for individual achievement. It could not be said that its opportunities as to business and the professions are not appreciated and utilized. In fields of profitable endeavor there is keen rivalry. In those fields individualism is highly developed. The material successes of today, great and small, are relatively greater than ever before. But isn't it true that in the things that concern public morals, civic progress and local and general government, the individualism of the business of the profession is laid aside and almost sole dependence placed on the drift of the crowd, the organization, the party?

Whatever the cause, the nation today has fewer outstanding men in public life than at any time in generations. In the days when the total number of men conspicuous in public service was much smaller, the number of really great minds was relatively much larger. Was it because in earlier times, when education was harder to get, when systematic propaganda was in its infancy, when collective thought more nearly represented individual sense, there was a higher development of character and conscience in things political and civic? There were times when great men could point to their followings rather than to what they followed. That was because they were thinkers, appealing to an age of thinking people.—Yakima Republic.

Waistline Is Important Question



Where shall the waistline be placed this season? A simple question. The answer is even simpler It can't be placed anywhere because it is—fashionably—non existant All lines are straight The side seams are either entirely straight or as nearly so as possible The models sketched show the new silhouette both as it is straight and when the line is broken at the hips

New York, Jan. 22.—Steadiness prevailed during the forenoon trading on the Stock Exchange today.

Up to the noon hour the oils, with the exception of Producers and Refiners, which was exceptionally strong and rose 1¾ to 42½—were subjected to heaviness. Pure Oil lost ⅝ to 23⅞; Pan American Pete 2¼ to 51⅜ and Cosden ⅜ to 35⅝. Sinclair Oil disclosed considerab. weakness, yielding over 3 points to 22⅞, due to the sensational testimony offered in the Teapot Dome investigation.

The steels and rails presented a steady tone. Gen. Elec. in spite of rumors of a split up, rose over 3 points to 214¼.

SEE RAISE IN STEEL PRICES SOON

Washington, Jan. 22. (INS.)—The eight-hour day in the steel industry is "working splendidly," Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, told President Coolidge today.

Judge Gary was in Washington and the President invited him to the White House to discuss the effect of the transition from the long to the short work day, a change which was accomplished during the Harding administration.

It was foreast, however, in official circles that steel and steel products will shortly rise in price as a result of the eight-hour day.

BRAEBURN STEEL COMPANY CHANGES

Braeburn, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS.)—Formal announcement of the purchase of the Braeburn Steel Co., here by interests at New Kensington, Blairsville and Latrobe was made here today.

President, D. T. Sipe, of Latrobe; Vice President, G. H. Neilson, of Pittsburgh; Treasurer, D. W. Yealy of Blairsville and Secretary, A. J. Barnett of Latrobe. The board of directors will include these officers and F. M. Grant of Blairsville. F. Malcolm Graff, S. M. Vockel, of Pittsburgh, and F. E. Pratt, of New Kensington.

The board of Directors will include these officers and F. M. Grant, of Blairsville, F. Malcolm Graff, S. M. Vockel of Pittsburgh and F. E. Pratt of New Kensington.

The plant will start full operation February 15. It will manufacture highspeed steel and high grade tool steel.

LABORITE ASSUMES

Postmaster General — Vernon Hartshorn.

President of the Council—Lord Parmoor.

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster—Josiah Wedgewood.

Secretary for Scotland—William Adamson.

There will be no women members of the new government although there are eight women members of Commons.

The policies of the new government will be announced when Commons reconvenes Feb. 12.

By DAVID M. CHURCH

London, Jan. 22.—Premier Stanley Baldwin, chief of the Tory Government of Great Britan for nearly eight months, resigned today after the House of Commons had adopted a resolution last night expressing lack of confidence in his cabinet. The Labor Party was summoned into power for the first time in English history.

After Baldwin had visited Buckingham palace where he tendered the resignation of his Government, J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor Party and chief of the opposition in the House of Commons was invited to the palace to receive the designation of Premier.

MacDonald readily accepted the post, knowing in advance that the honor would be his.

Labor came into power at a time when the entire nation is torn with labor strife, the railway locomotive engineers and firemen and some of the coal miners being on strike.

MacDonalds' followers said he would set his face at once toward settling these disputes.

Many of the liberals voted for the Laborites resolution of "No confidence" the result being 328 in favor of it and 256 in opposition.

The final meeting of the old cabinet was held this morning just before Baldwin visited the palace to hand in the resignation of himself and his colleagues.

The House of Commons met this afternoon with Premier-Designate MacDonald in power. However he had not completed the formation of his new Labor Government so it was anticipated that adjournment would be taken for a few weeks to enable the Laborites to formulate not only their government but their policies upon home and foreign questions.

Great Britain realizes that the whole world is watching the experiment being made here. While the dominant party is officially denominated Laborites, many of the newspapers call them Socialists.

Premier-Designate MacDonald said he hoped to present his new Cabinet to King George tomorrow.

Probable Appointees

It was understood that Lord Haldane has definitely accepted the post of Lord Chancellor.

Lord Parmoor will become President of the Council, a post formerly held by Earl Balfour.

Philip Snowden is expected to accept the post of Chancellor of the exchequer.

Arthur Henderson is slated for Home Secretary.

MacDonald and his Laborite colleagues united in assuring the press that nothing radical would be attempted.

"The country can trust us," declared the Premier Designate.

"There is nothing to fear. We realize our responsibilities."

It was anticipated that Commons would not meet again until about February 14.

The situation has been so well discounted that the swing of the Government from the hands of the Tories into the hands of the Labor-Socialist group caused little comment among the public at large.

TRADE RECORD

FUEL FOR THE WORLD'S AUTOMOBILE

The United States the chief gasoline supply for world automobiles and flying machines.

The American horseless vehicle which is so rapidly invading the markets of the world is at the same time drawing its "food supply" from its native country, the United States Figures compiled for the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York show that the exportation of that absolute requirement of the horseless vehicle and flying machine gasoline—is now nearly 5 times as much as a decade ago The total quantity of gasoline exported in 1913 was a little over 100,000,000 gallons and in 1923 is estimated at about 500,000,000 gallons, the value in 1913 was $17,000,000 and in 1923 approximately $75,000,000

That this demand for our gasoline by the automobiles and flying machines of the foreign world is a permanent one is evidenced by the fact that our exports of gasoline are now much greater than in the biggest year of the war period when the requirements of the military operations in Europe greatly intensified the demand upon us as the world's chief producer of gasoline. While the official export records of the United States now combine the gasoline figures with those of naphtha under the title of "gasoline, naphtha and other light products of distillation," a study of the official figures during the years in which gasoline was separately stated seems to justify an estimate that the 1923 exports of gasoline alone are about 500,000,000 gallons with a value of about $75,000,000

Even this big export of approximately 500,000,000 gallons in 1923, adds the Trade Record, is a small quantity when compared with the figures of total production since the recent census of manufactures shows the quantity produced in the United States in the calendar year 1921 as over 5,000,000,000 gallons, and this suggestion that we consume at home about nine-tenths of our product is in line with the recent statement that about nine-tenths of the world's automobiles are owned in the United States.

These 500,000,000 gallons of gasoline which we are exporting go to every part of the world. Official figures for 1921, the latest year in which gasoline was separately shown in the export record, showe shipments of gasoline to ninety different countries, colonies, and protectorates, including not only the chief countries of every grand division but also many of the smaller and younger political divisions such as Palestine, Kwangtung, Chosen, French Indo-China, Siam, Madagascar, Belgian Congo, Jugo-Slavia, Finland and Iceland. And in all of these countries to which the gasoline is sent it finds American automobiles awaiting its arrival.

Progress Editorial For Women

B. FRANKLIN ON DRESS
By Florence Davies

Poor old B. Franklin! What a jolt he'd get if he were alive today. Just listen to this.

"When I reflect on the interest women take in each other's clothes I cannot conceive you to be human creatures, but a sort of species, hardly a degree above a monkey, who has more diverting tricks than any of you and is an animal less mischievous and expensive."

That statement appeared in a small book by Benjamin Franklin entitled "Reflections on Courtship and marriage" which was recently purchased by the Librarian of The University of Pennsylvania, presumably for its Franklin collection.

The slender volume, one of the three known to be in existence, brought almost three hundred dollars a sum which would doubtless make the eyes of the thrifty old philosopher bulge in their sockets were he alive today.

As to his remarks about women and dress, it's quite evident that he must have missed a good deal of the softer side of life. But whatever he thought of us and our pretty fixings there was no occasion for him to be quite so rough.

But it must be admitted that some women today do come pretty near to meriting his charge. They are the women who make a veritable fetich of clothes, spending most of their waking hours and more than their available cash in the cause of dress.

Perhaps the most pitiable of these is the girl who works eight hours a day in business, and then, like some galley slave, starts all over again the minute she is free on a second day's work, under clothes.

She does it is true, achieve a charming immaculateness and a convincing style. But one wonders if even her enviable air of distinction is quite worth the price she pays for it, in a world which is brimming over with interest and beauty.

The new books in the library, the great singer who comes to town, the reading club or occasional lectures have no part in her life. She is too busy washing blouses and studying style books She has neither time or strength left to go to church, nor money to see a good play Sunday is not a day of rest, but a day of renovating, of basting and pressing and washing and stitching

True enough, this is the price that a woman of small means must pay to appear well dressed But couldn't she appear quite well enough without so much

Old Benjamin Franklin would get no encouragement from us if he were alive to hear it But since he's dead and cannot indulge in further impudence, one ventures to wonder if there might not still be just a grain of truth in his century-old impertinence.

Some time ago Mr. George was asked by an interviewer: "What is your favorite amusement?" The novelist replied: "Loafing about a great city between midnight and dawn." His reason he gave as follows: "At night it is the unexpected happens. The few people about you would be in bed, were it not for some unusual cause; love, purpose of crime, agony of apprehension, or black poverty. Lonely as are the stars, these people seek company; they willingly confide in you; and even enlist you in their schemes." Thus Mr. W. L. George has wandered hundreds of nights in London, Paris, Barcelona, New York, Chicago, etc. He has participated in several exciting adventures which he relates here, altering the names and details for the sake of his strange companions of the night. Three of these adventures actually happened to Mr. George; three are slightly amended. They make up the picture of darkness and passion, which stands behind the face of every great city, and represents a hidden world into which the daring can penetrate.

THE SLIPPER OF RED BROCADE

I

THERE comes a moment in a dance when one has really had enough of it. Such a moment occurred one night at about two o'clock, in the middle of the ball which the Marchioness of Dunmow was giving for her daughter, Angeline. Dunmow House is very large, occupying as it does the site of four houses in Curzon Street. But the acquaintanceship of the marchioness would have been quite equal to the

THEY WERE STRANGE, FOREIGN-LOOKING MEN, IN READY-MADE CLOTHES

Albeit Lady not only had she asked everybody she had ever known, but a number of strange names in the course of the night removed themselves to Dunmow House, while thirty or forty of the guests brought with them the reinforcement of the complete dinner parties they had attended that night. Thus the ball was pandemonium. Things went pretty well up to midnight, but then the clothing increased. At first there was little room to go forward, then we grew reduced to turning round and round on the same spot; just before two o'clock, when I was partnering Lady Adeline, even this movement became impossible, and the ball resolved itself into one vast throb under intense heat. We tried to step to the fashionable "Waltz Me to Dreamland," but at last Lady Adeline informed me that she felt faint, which was not remarkable, and I fought my way in football style through black coats and low-cut frocks, destroying as I went, many yards of georgette and charmeuse. Fortunately somebody else was entitled to Lady Adeline; at least he said so, for I will wager that no one could hear the band through the noise eight hundred people were making. I caught a glimpse of the marchioness, blockaded for the night in a corner; one of the tables of the buffet was upset with a crash by a rush of people wanting champagne. Trembling with exhaustion I found myself in the hall, readjusted my tie, and swore to myself that I would get out of this . . .

I could now hear the jerky one-step "Chop-chop Chinaman." As still more people were coming in, and as nobody was going out, I obtained my coat with ease, and perused just outside, against the railings, enjoying the cold night. Though it was May, frost hung in the air; the sky was of an exquisite pale green, studded with gold by stars; the street, beyond the zone where waited the carriages, shone white under the moon. But the wind stung my face. Fearing a chill, I went rapidly toward the west. Visions of bed and the hope of at last getting my collar off occupied my mind. But man is mad, and after a moment I realized that I wanted a cigaret. Reaching the archway that leads into Shepherd's Market, I hunched myself up to light a match. A cold little wind was blowing, and the match went out. I retreated into the darkness of the archway, but unfortunately the wind curled round into it; here began the tragedy that all men know, fighting a match in the wind. Turn where I would, hunch myself up, or bend down to the ground, every match flared and went out before the tobacco would catch. I was strained and hot, growing more and more determined, seeking corners, as one by one the matches vanished. It took me nearly five minutes to light that cigaret; in the middle of my struggle I was conscious of the sound of a taxi drawing up and moving away past the archway. With a breath of relief I turned to go out, my cigaret well lit; I beheld an extraordinary spectacle.

Before me, a young and apparently beautiful woman, in full evening dress, was engaged in curious antics. At one moment she bent down and called something. At others she took a nimble little run, then ran to the right or left in circles.

At that moment I perceived a fox terrier. I felt stupefied, not being accustomed to seeing in the middle of the night ladies in flame-colored brocade playing with fox terriers in Curzon Street.

"Spot!" said the woman, desperately, "Jack, Jim, come here. Come here, doggie . . . oh, you devil."

I smiled, for now the fox terrier, some little way off, was sitting down, wagging its tail vigorously; he had something in his mouth. The woman seemed in despair. She made a helpless movement with her hands. Evidently she wanted to catch the dog; evidently, too, I must help her. I stepped out of the archway, and, as I so did, pausing uncertainly, she turned to me and said, "Oh, there you are, No. 5 . . . I mean No. 9. Do help me to catch this dog." I came forward, going toward the dog. No. 9? Why did she call me No. 9? She must have expected me at this very spot. Meanwhile, I made attractive noises to the dog, who promptly danced about, full of excitement, making circles round both of us. "Why!" I cried, "he's got a slipper in his mouth."

"Of course he's got a slipper. It's my slipper. It dropped off as I got out of the taxi, and this . . . this . . . this dog picked it up. And he won't give it me back."

I strove to interest the dog, who joined in the game with enthusiasm. Meanwhile my mind was working; she had made a slip; she had called me No. 5, and only after that No. 9. That was because No. 5 was occupying her brain. She must be No. 5. Anyhow, I'd risk it. It wouldn't do any harm. So I said: "It was careless of you, No. 5."

"I know it was," she said, angrily. "Perhaps we'd better not move for a minute. He might drop it."

We watched the fox terrier for a while. The girl asked why she had not seen me before and supposed I had drawn the lot by proxy. Meanwhile, after throwing us a glance of disappointment because we would not go on with the game, the fox terrier had now settled a little way off; far from leaving the slipper, he was beginning to eat it. Then I did a silly thing. Hoping to catch the dog unawares, I shouted and leapt toward him. He started up, alas, taking up the slipper. Nimbly dodging me, he bolted into the archway. I ran into Shepherd's Market, the woman limping behind me. For one moment I thought I had caught the creature, for I touched him, but he rushed between my legs, then into a corner where he left me, for when I turned he had disappeared. Then, in the distance, we heard a clock strike the half hour. The woman made a desperate gesture: "Too late! We can't go after him now."

I was just going to suggest finding her a taxi to drive her home, forgetting the peculiarities of the case, when from the four corners of Shepherd's Market, detached themselves men. They were strange, foreign-looking men, in ready-made clothes, except one, who, like ourselves was dressed in fashionable garb. When they were quite close, the woman in a low tone remarked: "No. 5."

Then men were staring at me. So, determined to see this to the end, I murmured: "No. 9."

"Right," said one of the men in a low tone. "Now, do you mind." I found that a bandage was being slipped over my eyes, but as I had had time to see another handkerchief being made ready to blindfold my companion, I did not resist. Besides, the man in evening clothes volunteered an explanation in the shape of a question: "I suppose your committee always blindfolds friends from another district?"

"Oh, always," said Number 5, saving me a reply.

We were walking on; meanwhile the man in evening clothes talked a little in a low tone: "It's quite as well, you see. Like that, if one committee gets caught, the others don't get taken also. Besides, we haven't far to go." Where we went I still do not know, for our guards followed a cleverly circuitous route, turning us round rapidly, diving into corners and coming out. Perhaps we went three hundred yards, perhaps fifty. Finally I found myself being led into a house. The door closed behind me; my bandage was taken off. I went into a ground floor room from which the street could not be seen as the shutters were up.

Curwensville's Own Column

Sunday Enos Bloom celebrated his 81st birthday at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Erhard. There were four generations present, Mr. and Mrs. Enos Bloom, Mrs. Dr. Parks, Mrs. Erhard and her children. Instead of a turkey dinner, a quarter section of a young porker was served, which all pronounced more than equal to taste than either chicken or turkey. The time Enos arrived, January 20, 1843, there was four feet of snow on the ground. He was born in Pike township about one and one-half miles from New Millport on what is now known as the Potts farm. He is still a vigorous man for his years and the hard knocks at labor in his younger days.

Report reached Curwensville yesterday afternoon to the effect that the Chestnut Ridge school house had burned to the ground. The fire is supposed to have started from a defective flue.

Messrs. Harry Pugh and James Wolfe, both of Morgantown, W. Va., and James Goss of Philipsburg, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bair, Susquehanna avenue.

Annie Catino, a daughter of John Catino, is ill and suffering from a serious attack of heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn Faust, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., arrived in Curwensville Saturday for the purpose of attending the funeral of Mrs. Apgar Bloom.

Messrs. A. P. Way and Tonic Evans two enterprising young men of Du Bois, attended the funeral of Mrs Apgar Bloom on Sunday, the deceased being an aunt of the latter.

Owing to the sudden change of the weather, the High School building could not be heated sufficiently for holding classes yesterday. Little ones who started to school in the morning scantily clad were almost frozen before they reached the building. One little girl was so cold that she was taken into the post office room and worked over by the force. So cold was she that it required a treatment of cold water on limbs and arms to draw out the frost. It was a good half hour before she was able to continue her way. Another lad is reported to have frozen his fingers before reaching school. The lack of heat in the rooms was not the fault of Janitor Weaver, because he spent more than half the night trying to get the building heated.

Rev. Gibson preached in the Methodist Church last evening. He is a good talker and made a fine impression on his congregation. The revival services will be continued throughout the balance of the week.

The writer has been asked a number of times as to the age of Mrs. Apgar Bloom, as it has not appeared in print. Mrs. Bloom's age was 80 years, 10 months and 4 days. She was a daughter of Isaac Graham. Her mother's maiden name was Campbell and she came from Scotland. Apgar Bloom, at his death in 1913, was 81 years, 4 months and 12 days of age.

McADOO TO STAY OUT OF NEBRASKA

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 21, (INS)—Gov. Bryan made public the following telegram from Wm. G. McAdoo this afternoon.

"Am informed that your name has been mentioned in connection with the presidential nomination. In view of our long friendship therefore, I shall not permit my name to be entered in the Nebraska primary."

Bryan refused to disclose whether or not he would be a Presidential candidate, saying that he had no announcement to make at this time.

MAS. AI F. BOYNTON BURIED

The remains of Drs. Ai F. Boyton, who died in Philadelphia early Sunday morning, were brought to Clearfield yesterday morning by her nephew J. Emmott Harder, and buried from the train.

This was done in acordance with the expressed wishes of the deceased before her demise. A number of the friends of the deceased met the funeral party at the station and escorted the hod yto the family plot in Hillcrest cemetery. A brief service was conducted at the grave by Rev. Horace Lincoln Jacobs of Trinity Methodist Church, of which church deceased was a lifelong member.

NICOLIA LENINE

try estate outside of Moscow and ruled daily by his wife.

An Idol To The Last.

Members of the People's Council of Commissaries (the government of the Federal Socialist Soviet) visited him at intervals for counsel. Sick or well, Lenine remained the idol of the Russian communists.

At the last meeting of the executives of the all-Russian Communist party which ended only last week, a resolution was adopted that Russian youths should be compelled to study the political teachings of Lenine as the basis for the future government of Russia.

While Lenine's influence was felt throughout the entire world he has always remained more or less of an obscure figure.

So long as he could rule and wield power he was content to remain in the background and allow the lesser lights to occupy the limelight.

Triumvirate Rules.

It has long been reported Lenine would be succeeded by a triumvirate. It was a notable circumstance that his death found a virtual triumvirate in power. Zinoviev, head of the Petrograd Soviet, leader of the Third Internationale, and member of the Communist executive committee; Stalin, people's commissar for Minorites (nationalites) in the Soviet government and Leon Kamenev, third vice president of the council, are virtually in power. They are leading the Communist "old guard" against the hostile fation under Trotzky.

For six years Lenine was practically dictator of Russia. Allied powers waged war against him but without success. A notable military failure was the war against Poland when Poland was saved by French troops.

Lenine's real family name was Vladimir Ilyitch Uylanov. He came of a noble family but was banished from Russia because of his nihilist principles. He lived a great part of his life in France and Switzerland. He was living in Switzerland during the world war.

An official communique said:

"Lenine died at Gorky, 30 miles from Moscow, at 6 30 o'clok Monday evening. His wife and sister were at the bedside."

The first public announcement of Lenine's death was made amidst dramatic scenes of grief by President Kalenin of the Russian Federated Republic of Soviets at 4 o'clock this morning at the Bolshoy theatre, where the Soviet congress was in session.

The delegates had assembled to celebrate the anniversary of the first revolutionary outbreak in Petrograd.

Services were planned in honor of fallen "comrades."

Kamenev, Zinoviev, and Stalin appeared upon the stage with tears streaming down their cheeks. Immediately the audience knew something tragic had fallen the nation.

Kalenin advanced to the front of the stage and in broken, halting sentences started to speak.

"Comrades," he cried, trying to make his voice strong but unsuccessfully, "our comrade Ilyitch is no longer with us."

The speaker paused while the audience, men and women, leaned forward in their seats. He resumed:

"Our beloved leader passed away last night. All that is left for us is the glorious teaching he has left behind him."

Kalinen apparently had more in mind to say but could not speak. He bowed slightly and sat down.

The audience sat thunderstruck for a moment. Then a mighty wail went up. Men groaned in their grief, women sobbed. Some of the women delegates fainted.

In the streets military bands marched slowly back and forth playing funeral dirges.

The body will be brought to Moscow tomorrow. It was embalmed today. It will rest in state for several days before interment.

Temperature In the Earth.

Scientists used to think that temperature increased at a fairly regular rate with descent into the earth's crust, and they figured that a temperature would soon be reached where every known substance would be melted. Recent facts have upset this theory. For instance, in a South African mine the temperature at 8,000 feet is only 102 degrees, while in the Kalgoorlie mines of Australia practically no variation of temperature is shown between 1,400 and 2,300 feet. The old earth may be solid, after all.—The National Geographic Magazine.

Sometimes.

Sometimes all that is the matter is that not enough people tell a man how to run his business instead of too many.

Parrots and Eagles Long Lived.

The wren is a short-lived bird, compared with others of its species, its average span of life being but three years. The sparrow is a veteran beside the wren, and often lives for 40 years. But there are other birds which attain much greater ages. Parrots, for instance, often become centenarians while eagles have been known to pass the century mark. The swan, too, is a long liver, there being numerous instances on record of this bird having lived more than 150 years. Classical writers tell of ravens which lived 240 years, but even these birds may be said to have died young when compared with the 700-year-old rooks mentioned by Pliny in his writings.

Oil From Penguins.

The Island of Macquarie lies about half way between the southern coast of Australia and the Antarctic continent. It is uninhabited, but serves as a breeding ground for millions of penguins. Recently it is reported the government of Australia has leased the island to a company which has gone into the business of manufacturing penguin oil, which is produced by digesting the bodies of the birds in huge cauldrons or boilers, in which the pressure of steam is kept at about twenty pounds. The oil is thus brought to the surface and drawn off.

"Cut of Her Jib."

An old Scotch pilot professed to be able to tell the home port of any incoming vessel within a reasonable distance by what seamen still call "the cut of her jib," meaning thereby her general appearance. To test his powers an onlooker called his attention to one in the far distance. The pilot gazed long and earnestly, and eventually pronounced her an Aberdeen boat. He proved to be right, and a chorus of surprised voices inquired how he knew. "No seagull's following her!" he said.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

English Royal Coach at $38,000.

The English royal state coach, which is still in use on ceremonial occasions, is a magnificent vehicle of its kind, and, according to Horace Walpole, cost nearly $38,000, says the Detroit News. The use of coaches is a comparatively recent innovation, for as late as the reign of Queen Elizabeth the English royal family had to be content with a wagon, which was a sort of cart without springs, the body resting solidly on the axle. Before the invention of the coach the most aristocratic ladies were accustomed to ride on pillions fixed on the horse, usually behind some relative or servant.

Helped Relieve Husband's Headache

Because Williams' Anti-Pain Ointment was so effective in relieving her husband's headaches, Mrs. J. E. Wright, 129 West Ormsby Avenue, Louisville, Ky., tells all her friends about the merits of the ointment. "I tried Williams Anti-Pain Ointment as the last resort," she said. "My husband has found quick relief each time the ache occurs."

Hundreds of users of Williams Anti-Pain Ointment say that it quickly relieves rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, headache, tired and aching feet, and kindred pains. It is easily obtained at the corner drugstore in 60c and $1.00 jars. The $1.00 size contains three times as much as the 50c size. Write for free sample or send $1.00 to the Standard Medical Company, Lansford, Pa., for a large size jar.

A GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR PILES

Go to Woodward & McPherson today, hand them 30c and say "I want a jar of San Cura Ointment and if you aren't satisfied your money back.

For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles, at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura Ointment and one 60c jar made a firm and permanent cure. I have not been troubled since."—Rev W. F. Gilbert, Titusville, Pa.

It draws out poison; that's the secret of the wonderful success of San Cura Ointment; that's why it so quickly heals scalds, burns, cuts, bruises and eczema. It's best to use San Cura Soap at all times; it is a great aid in banishing pimples, blackheads and the germs of disease. 25 cents. All druggists.

Teapot Dome

from Sinclair's employment because of suspicions of corruption, in connection with the leases.

For years both Roosevelt and Walberg had been right hand men of Sinclair. Walberg had access to the business and private check books of the oil man, which he told Senate public lands committee had been hurriedly taken out of the office just before Sinclair sailed for Paris last Wednesday.

The Department of Justice given full access to the committee's records taken in a year's investigation, has launched a probe of its own into the leasing with a view to possible criminal prosecution, it was learned.

Walberg retained a sufficient attorney [illegible] in the committee room when Roosevelt and Walberg told their amazing stories that led to their resignations.

"Of course the Department of Justice is investigating," Holland said today. "We shall certainly seek criminal prosecution if evidence sufficient to warrant such action is unearthed." He admitted that agents of the department were working on the case, but would not say whether this was requested by the committee, and he refused to state whether he considered the present revelations sufficient.

Statements by Roosevelt and Walberg who was called for additional questioning today, cleared away much of the mystery which has baffled committee members and opened new paths for the committee's probe.

Fall, who repudiated testimony that he had received $100 000 from Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, to buy a ranch in New Mexico, will again be asked by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, directing the inquiry, to appear to explain where he got the money to pay for the ranch and to make extensive improvements on his own ranch. Fall, like New Orleans, announced he had cancelled an ocean voyage.

E. L. Doheny of the Pan American Petroleum Company, which obtained lease to rich naval reserve land in California, is on his way to Washington to testify.

Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, and Representative Garrett, Democrat of Tennessee, declared they would press for adoption of their resolutions demanding cancellation of the leases to Sinclair and Doheny.

Democrats were making "political capital" of the latest Teapot Dome expose and threatened to use this material as one of the paramount issues in the 1924 Presidential campaign. The Democratic national committee launched the first attack with a broadside against Fall.

Several other important witnesses were summoned before the committee today, including Sinclair's general counsel who was charged by Walberg with having taken the oil man's check books from the office to his home. Earl Sinclair, brother of the magnate, bookkeepers and financial advisers of Sinclair's office; and T. J. Johnson foreman of Fall's ranch.

Roosevelt told the committee that Walberg had said to him that "one of the most unpleasant things in the whole affair was a payment of $68 000 to the foreman of Fall's ranch." Walberg later denied this statement saying Roosevelt must have misunderstood him. Theodore Roosevelt Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Archie's brother, who listened in on a telephone conversation between Archie and Walberg, supported his brother's contention.

According to information received by the committee three of the principal figures in the oil leases Fall, Edward L. Doheny, and Col. J. W. Zevely, are now in New Orleans in conference.

A new attack by Senator Walsh on Fall's action in leasing the Elk Hills, Cal., naval reserve to Doheny the Pan American Petroleum Company, was revealed today. It developments are as Walsh contemplates, a sensation even more startling than revealed in the Teapot Dome [illegible]

Walsh plans to assail the legality of the contract by which Doheny got control of the reserve, said to contain some of the richest oil fields in the world.

A recital of the history of the lease was given by Walsh today.

In March, 1922, the federal government advertised for bids for construction of naval oil reserve tanks, to be paid for out of royalties from oil from naval reserve lands. The project was launched by the Navy Department in order to have oil in tanks immediately available to supply the heavy current demands and for possible emergency use.

Walsh charged that Doheny submitted two bids, one, in accordance with the advertisement, for building the tanks at navy shore stations and a second, offering the government a $200,000 bonus if granted preferential rights on future oil reserve leases.

The second bid Walsh held was illegal, charging it was discriminatory.

Doheny then obtained the lease in December, 1922.

Walsh will quiz both Doheny and Fall regarding the contracts and the leasing provisions.

Find Charred Bodies of Husband And Wife In Philadelphia Fire Ruins

Philadelphia, Jan. 22. (INS—Searching the ruins of a fire which destroyed a hardware store topped by apartments, firemen early today found the charred bodies of a man and his wife. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, who occupied one of the apartments above the store.

Two firemen were injured trying to rescue the couple. One is believed to have a fractured skull as the result of falling from a second story window.

Damage to the building was estimated at $25,000.

SCHAEFFER HAS BIG LEAD OVER HOPPE

Chicago, Jan. 22 (INS.)—Jake Schaeffer will meet Willie Hoppe tonight with a 131 point lead over the champion at the start of their second block of 500 in their 1500 point match for the world's 18.2 billiard title.

Schaeffer went the first block 500 to 369 last night. He finished the evening with an unfinished run of 48 and the additional advantage over Hoppe of good position from which to start tonight.

TO HAVE A FAST BASKET BALL TEAM PLAY OSCEOLA SATURDAY NIGHT

Another good sized squad of basketeers were seen in action on the Y. M. C. A. court last evening when a second session was held to pick a team to represent the Association which were present for four teams and some good prospects were sighted during the evening's scrimmage. Tomorrow night these men will get together for a real workout and there is no doubt but that a fast aggregation will be organized. The men which will report will include four ex high school stars in Brown, Howe, Smith and Knepp; Davis, a newcomer, who has played on a number of fast teams throughout the State, McKee, a huskey local center and a number of other local tossers, in Kurtz, Hile, Robinson, Hutchinson and Leitzinger.

Plays, signals and scrimmage will be in order tomorrow night in preparation for Saturday's game. Coach Mitchell and Director Shannon will be on hand to direct activities.

BURNING FLUE AGAIN

The flue at the home of A. B. Maines on Nichols street took a notion to burn out last evening about 6 o'clock. The sparks had been flying out in considerable volume for some time and everything going fine until some son-of-a-gun who seems to think it fun to see the firemen dashing about on their apparatus in zero weather sent in a fire alarm. There was no damage done by the fire and of course nothing for the firemen to do when they got there.

The next person who sends in an alarm when he sees a flue burning out is going to be sentenced to ride on a fire truck for ten or a dozen blocks with the mercury at the zero point. One such trip will cure anybody.

Dynamiting Mosquitoes

Man has begun to use high explosives in his war against insects. Dynamite, which we usually think of in connection with the destruction of big things, is now being employed against little mosquitoes. It is used to blast these dangerous insects carrying pests out of existence by digging ditches which drain the mosquito breeding grounds.

Petroleum Springs.

The first reference to the discovery of petroleum in America is contained in a letter written in 1629 by Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, a French missionary to the Indians. He had crossed the Niagara river and made his way southward through western New York into northern Pennsylvania where he found a spring from which oil flowed. This oil was highly esteemed by the Indians for medicinal uses. The letter of the priest was published in 1632 in Sagard's "History de Canada."

Snyder Not Satisfied; Will Continue Battle Against Pinchot Code

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS.)—State Treasurer Snyder will continue his attacks on the constitutionality of separate sections of the administrative code, he announced today. He also asserted he will, as solicitor for Sabuylkill county, contest the right of the state police here to make arrests and then "saddle the costs on the county."

"The decision of the Supreme Court yesterday holding the code constitutional as a whole but raising the question of the legality of some of its parts will give Snyder the opportunity to meet the issues as they arise," he said.

MAC DONALD ACCEPTS BRITISH PREMIERSHIP

NICOLAI LENINE, DICTATOR OF RUSSIA, DEAD OF HEART DISEASE

COOLIDGE STANDS PAT FOR MELLON PLAN; HINTS AT VETO FOR OTHERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—President Coolidge has determined to go down with colors flying rather than compromise on the Mellon program of tax reduction.

Efforts of Republican leaders in Congress to win over the White House to a departure from the rates laid down in the Mellon bill have resulted in absolute failure, it became known today. The leaders have been informed that the White House expects all "regular" Republicans to support the Mellon bill.

It was announced at the White House today that President Coolidge has turned down all suggestions of compromising on the maximum surtax, and it was further stated, significantly, that even if Congress compromises the position of President Coolidge will still be unchanged —a definite hint of veto.

TEAPOT DOME GIVES PROMISE OF BEING A GREAT DISGRACE

Son of Roosevelt and C. D. Wahlberg Resign Posts With Sinclair As Result of Exposures.

LID IS BLOWN OFF

"Willing and ready to go at any time," was exSecretary Albert B. Fall's reply today when told by International News Service that a subpoena had been telegraphed to him from Washington for further questioning relative to the leasing of naval reserve lands.

"I have a general idea of what is going on up there but they are welcome to question me as much as they like," Fall said.

By KENNETH CLARK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 22.—The lid was off Teapot Dome today.

Criminal prosecution of some of the men involved in the leasing of the naval oil reserve by ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to H. F. Sinclair was declared to be possible as a result of the startling revelations made to the Senate public committee by Archie Roosevelt, son of the late President, and G. D. Wahlberg, both of whom have resigned

COOLIDGE WANTS A FULL AND COMPLETE TEAPOT DOME PROBE

By KENNETH W. CLARK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 22.—President Coolidge today took a hand in the Teapot Dome "mess."

It was announced at the White House that the President personally has ordered the Department of Justice to make a full and complete investigation into the circumstances surrounding the leasing of the naval oil reserve by ex-Secretary of the Interior Fall to Harry F. Sinclair. President Coolidge, it was stated, is directing the Department of Justice in charge of the administration end of the matter, and if criminal prosecutions are warranted they will be undertaken.

The highly sensational revelations made the past week are understood to have moved the President to intervene in the case.

Clothes Ignite From Forge, Blacksmith Is Burned To Death

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 22. (INS.)—Horribly burned about the face and body, when his clothing ignited while warming himself before a forge last night, Lawrence A. Hebb, 18, died at the Washington county hospital early today.

Hebb was wheeling ashes from the blacksmith shop to the yard and went into the shop to get warm. In some manner his sleeve caught fire. Excited, he rushed into the yard where the high wind fanned his clothing into a mass of flames.

Before the blaze could be extinguished his clothes were burned from his body.

Parochial School Will Be Closed For Two Weeks Instead of But One Week

The St. Francis parochial school will be closed for at least two weeks, instead of one week, as was published in last evening's Progress

Sister Marie Agnes, of the faculty who is suffering from diphtheria, is holding her own very nicely today. The other sisters remained in the convent instead of moving into the parsonage and because of this fact will have to keep out of the school room for the two weeks required by the rules of the Board of Health in the case of all persons in contact or in the same house with a patient suffering with diphtheria.

Of course if any one of the remaining sisters develop the disease during the period of the present quarantine the quarantin will be extended and the school kept closed until danger of further spread of the disease is past.

Ruled Red Russia As A "Czar" For Six Years. Succeeded By Triumvirate Of His Supporters

By WILLIAM J. RESWICK
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Moscow, Jan. 22.—Official announcement was made today that Nicolai Lenine, President of the Council of Peoples' Commissaries (The Russian Red Government) is dead. He died last night at his country estate with his wife at the bedside. Lenine had been sinking for some time, owing to heart weakness induced by paralysis of the side.

As soon as news of Lenine's death was circulated here flags were placed at half mast upon all the Government buildings and upon many private houses.

The Soviet cabinet conferred upon plans for the funeral which will be held Saturday.

The greatest public demonstration of sorrow Russia has ever known in her history is anticipated.

The body will be brought here (according to present plans) to rest in state at the Kremlin before it is interred in red square, where the body of John Reed, American writer and Socialist, lies buried.

Word of Lenine's death reached London in a code message from Moscow. Plans are under way for a great state funeral Saturday.

Lenine was the real power behind the Moscow government. His powers were even more dictatorial than those of the czar that ruled before he came into authority as head of the Russian government in 1917.

Lenine's death came at a time when his colleague, Leon Trotzky, as spectacular a revolutionary figure as himself, was ill and at war with the central executive committee of the Communist party.

Disease and death thus removes from the arena two of the most active figures that set the red flag flying over Russia.

Specialists had been summoned from Germany from time to time. They succeeded in prolonging Lenine's life but could not save it.

During most of the time he was ill, he lived in a modest villa on his coun-

Borah, Russia Champion In America, Says Death Of Lenine Is a Body Blow

Washington, Jan. 22. (INS.)—News of the death of Nicolai Lenine, the "iron man" of Russia, created a profound sensation in Washington today. There was much speculation as to the effect his death will have on Russia's future.

Senator Wm. E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, the Champion of Russian recognition in Congress, said in a statement to International News Service he considred Lenine's death a grevious blow to Russia.

LABORITE ASSUMES PREMIERSHIP OF BRITISH EMPIRE

London, Jan. 22 (INS)—Miss MacDonald, daughter of the new Prime Minister designate visited Downing Street, official residence of the Premier, this afternoon to view her new home.

Mrs. Baldwin, wife of the retiring Prime Minister, graciously received her. She showed her over the house saying, "You see we are all prepared to go. I hope you will like it here."

Mrs. MacDonald, wife of Ramsey MacDonald, died 12 years ago leaving three daughters. MacDonald is 57 years old.

London, Jan. 22.—Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the British Labor party, completed the formation of Great Britain's first Labor government this evening, within less than 12 hours after the Tory Premier, Stanley Baldwin, had resigned.

The following personnel of the new cabinet was officialy announced:

ANNUAL REPORT OF HEALTH SECRETARY IS COMMENDABLE

Drop In Both Scarlet Fever and Diphtheria; Typhoid Kept Out of Borough by Vigilance.

VERY FINE RECORD

For the year our records show 114 cases of communicable diseases under quarantine, which is 46 more than were reported for 1922. The following table shows the number of cases of the several diseases in each year:

	1922	1923
Diphtheria	86	71
Scarlet Fever	55	31
Typhoid Fever	0	2
Measles	144	121
Chicken Pox	35	151
Whooping Cough	31	62
Mumps	47	6
	398	444

Note the difference for the better in the comparisons for diphtheria and scarlet fever. There were two cases of typhoid fever, but a history and survey of each case convinced the Board they were not contracted from local conditions. Four deaths from diphtheria and two from whooping cough occurred in 1923.

One hundred and fortytwo quarts of flies were caught in the 25 fly traps placed during the past year.

The sanitary inspection made last summer took the census of livestock and poultry. A tabulation of their figures show there are 139 horses and mules, 71 cows, and 22,270 chickens in Clearfield, distributed as follows:

	Horses and Mules	Cows	Chickens

AUTO THIEVES VISIT NO LESS THAN EIGHT PHILIPSBURG BUSINESS PLACES DURING NIGHT; THEIR LOOT IS LIGHT

Frightened Away By the Night Watchman At The Guelick Garage After They Had Broken In Others.

WERE CRUDE WORKERS

A pair of automobile bandits slipped quietly into Philipsburg last night and before being chased out of town by a night watchman they wakened at one of the garages they entered, got into and robbed or attempted to rob no less than eight different business places.

One man, who appeared to be a crude workman or who had insufficient tools and medicaments for his purpose, did the breaking and entering while his companion remained in an automobile, with the engine running on Pine street ready to assist the cracksman in a speedy getaway in case of discovery, and which did work out according to their plan.

The places visited were the Olympic Pool Room, Walton's Drug Store, Centre County Lumber Company's office, Deal & Flegal Garage, Frank Beals' Garage, J. O. Reed's Grist Mill, Philipsburg Hardware Company and the Gulich Garage.

The robber did not succeed in getting much loot for his trouble. At the Walton Drug Store he secured $12. The Olympic Pool Room yielded $7.00 more. The sum of $6.13 was taken from the Centre County Lumber Company's office, while the cash register at the Deal & Flegal Garage yielded $5.00 in change.

At the Beals Garage, Reed's Grist Mill and Philipsburg Hardware Company offices attempts were made to open the safes of these concerns, but the burglar was not expert enough to get any one of them open. Each safe

PRESIDENT ROSSER TO SERVE COUNCIL NAMES COMMITTEES

Beahan, Gulick, Jay and Adams Head More Important Branches of Borough Government.

FIRE EQUIPMENT IS TOPIC OF INTEREST

The first regular meeting of the Borough Council as organized for the years 1924 and 1925 was held in the council chamber of the Borough building last evening. President Rosser presided and all the following members were present: Messrs Adams, Schenck, McKee, Poorman, Sykes, Jay and Beahan.

Committees Are Named

President Rosser announced the committee assignments for the year as follows:

Highways—J. S. Beahan, Chairman; O. E. Poorman, Geo. M. Risser.

Finance—Ashley J. Gulich, chairman, Blair W. Sykes, Ralph McKee.

Public Property, Lights—Ira Jay, Chairman, F. M. Ellis, Dean H. Bloom.

Sewers—F. R. Adams, Chairman, Edward Schenck, A. G. Bowes.

Annual Report of Board of Health

The annual report of Secretary Gaulin of the Board of Health was read to Council. The document denoted the activities of the guardians of the public health and showed a satisfactory condition throughout the year. It will be noted there was an increase in communicable diseases quarantined in 1923 over 1922, but it will also be seen that this increase was in the annoying minor ailments while there was a distinct betterment in the battle against scarlet fever and diphtheria.

It will be noted too, that while the Board of Health was given an appropriation of $1957 for the year their expenditures were about $300 less than that total. They asked for and were given a similar appropriation for 1924.

DISTRICT NO. TWO MINERS TO MEET AT ALTOONA THIS YEAR

Will Convene March 11 To Follow Lead of the International Meet At Indianapolis, Ind.

BROPHY MAY BE A SEEKER OF HONORS

For the first time in many years the miners of District No. 2, United Mine Workers of America, will hold their convention outside of DuBois, Pa., having selected Altoona, Pa., as the place of meeting for the coming convention the first session being due March 11. What District No. 2 has always known as the delegates a hearty welcome and accorded them the best kind of treatment, at their last convention, they decided that, just for the sake of a change, they would go to Altoona this year.

What will be done at the convention depends entirely upon what is going to be worked out at the convention to be held at Indianapolis, Ind., this week. So far as the local district is concerned, no schedule of demands has been arranged at this time. Work in District No. 2 has been in bad shape for more than a year, with both the miner and the operator suffering as a result. What little demand has existed for coal from this district has been supplied by working the men of some of the mines on part time. Many of the mines have been closed tight for

FIRE DESTROYS A BIG GARAGE AND AUTOS AT WASHINGTON, PA.

Washington, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS.)—Damage estimated at more than $100,000 was caused here today by fire which razed the building of the L. H. Rainsford Automobile Company and 17 tractors stored in it.

The blaze started in the repair room from an unknown origin and had gained great headway before it was discovered. Washington and Jefferson College students were called out to help fight the flames but repeated explosions of the gasoline, the high wind and the intense cold hampered their work. The students drove more than 50 machines from the building.

UNIONTOWN JURY FREES MOTHER WHO AVENGED ATTACK ON CHILD

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS).—The unwritten law which permits a mother to defend her children was upheld by a jury in criminal court here today when, in the most sensational verdict ever returned in Fayette County courts, they acquitted Mrs. Ida McNeil for the shooting of Henry Thomas, accused of attacking her daughter, aged nine.

The verdict read:

"Without any intention of commending or encouraging defiance of the laws of the commonwealth, we heartily approve in this particular case of this mode of dealing with human fiends and recommend that Mrs. McNeil be exonerated."

The jury was composed of two women, a clergyman, the Mayor of Uniontown and two newspapermen.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

According to reports reaching Clearfield the mules used about the mines in the southeastern section of Clearfield county are finding this really the "winter of their discontent." Humane Officer T. B. Reilley was called to Ramey today (Monday) to investigate a story to the effect that a more or less prominent coal operator of that community had been guilty of gross cruelty to a trio of mules which he had been using about his mines. When the coal business went on the bum, it is said, the poor mules were left to shift for themselves. Two of the animals are alleged to have died of starvation while the third was brutally killed to save it from a similar fate.

In addition to this report (a) those who claim to know say there are many mules in the coal regions from Osceola Mills around to Coalport that are slowly starving to death and that a general investigation into the conditions surrounding these poor beasts of burden should be made by the humane authorities throughout the region mentioned.

Things appear to be breaking Governor Pinchot's way with a rush these days. Giffy stirred up the animals and got nation-wide publicity (which he hates) by his Anti-Saloon League speech last week, while the "organization" was forced to bow to his wishes in the national delegate pre-primary scrap, and now the Supreme Court decides the state administrative code is as good law as one could expect from a Pennsylvania legislature and thus Giffy and Cornelia continue to reign supreme at Harrisburg.

More than 873,000 lives have been saved, drunkenness has been reduced to a hitherto unknown level and $74,000,000 has been saved in contributions formerly made to charitable societies alone for the care of destitute families in the first four years of prohibition, according to the Anti-Saloon League of America.

The claims of the Anti-Saloon League are contained in resolutions unanimously adopted at its recent national convention.

A bonus, adjusted compensation, or whatever you may call it, Mellon tax plan to the contrary notwithstanding, not only appealed to but was given all our war heroes of the past. They were not too proud to accept it, either, as the following from 1st Lieut. Ulysses Simpson Grant will show:—

State of Michigan,
County of Wayne, ss:

On the 6th day of November, A. D. 1850, personally appeared before me, a justice of the peace within and for the county and State aforesaid, First Lieut. Ulysses S. Grant, aged twenty-eight years, an officer of the Fourth Regiment United States Infantry, in the service of the United States, who, being duly sworn according to law, declares that he is the identical Ulysses S. Grant who was a second lieutenant and regimental quartermaster in the Fourth Regiment of United States Infantry, commanded by Col. William Whistler, in the war with Mexico declared to exist on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1846, that he graduated at West Point, in the State of New York, about the 30th day of June, A. D. 1843, and continued in actual service during the entire period of the war, as will be shown by the muster rolls of the field and staff of the Fourth Regiment of United States Infantry.

He makes this declaration for the purpose of obtaining the bounty lands to which he may be entitled under the "act granting bounty lands to certain officers and soldiers who have been engaged in the military service of the United States," passed September 28, 1850.

U. S. GRANT,
1st Lt. & R. Q. M., 4th Inf.

State of Michigan,
County of Wayne, ss:

I, Silas A. Bagg, clerk of said county of Wayne, do hereby certify that George Clancy, whose name is affixed to the affidavit of the annexed instrument and therein written, was, at the time of taking affidavit, a justice of the peace for said county, duly elected and qualified, and duly authorized to take the affidavit: And further, that I am well acquainted with the handwriting of such justice and verily believe that the signature to the said jurat is genuine.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said county at the city of Detroit, this 6th day of November, A. D. 1850

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 6, 1850

Sir: Will you please forward me my land warrant on the inclosed certificate? I am, sir,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

Times are changing, tis said, while people too, are not what they used to be. We remember back quite some few years ago, when Philipsburg girls were not only good to look upon, but were lovingly warm-hearted and more or less of the sort of clinging vine type But, alas for fond recollections. While we can't speak from personal disillusionment in that regard, Philipsburg girls must have changed even more than anybody who knew them back in the late '80's as there along had any reason to expect. To prove our contention just listen to this soulful appeal from Philipsburg to T. R. Weimer one of the Clearfield County Commissioners:

Philipsburg, Pa., Jan. 20

Mr. Weimer,

Dear sir:—Have you any girls in the County Home that you will leave out. I would like to have one for a wife. If you have let me know and I will come out there and marry her. Let me know at once.

Yours lonely
J. R. SMITH.

Just think of that, girls. And this is leap year, too. How chilly those Philipsburg girls must be these days.

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, West Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I was born in Marion County and still live in it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true." —Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. THE HOLMWOOD

An English Type House Sure to Please.

In the Holmwood we have an especially charming English type of home sure to delight the builder who wants large rooms offering plenty of opportunity for decoration and the placing of furniture Those who like to entertain a great deal will be quick to see the possibilities in this plan. The exterior invites an informal method of planting.

A small terrace at the front has a solid stucco wall making a semi-private porch from which we enter the hall where we see a pleasing stairway and neat closet arrangement. From the hall we reach the living room at one side and the dining room at the other. The dining room is made cheerful by a front bay of three windows. The living room is the feature of this plan and should delight those who enjoy a spacious well-furnished room. It has a fireplace of proportions sufficient to permit the burning of large logs and the width of the room allows the placing of comfortable furniture before it without crowding. There are windows on three sides including a three-windowed bay in front.

One could hardly ask for a better kitchen than the one planned here. It has cross ventilation from every direction Three windows light the sink, drainboard and working table. The range is well away to itself. There is a closet for brooms, pots, and pans, and a pantry with compartments for all the equipment of the culinary workshop. In the rear entrance is a place for the refrigerator and here stairs lead one to a cellar arranged with separate rooms for laundry, furnace, and vegetable and coal storage.

Two bedrooms and the bath comprise the entire second floor. Both bedrooms have large closets and one has a good storage closet in addition. The dormers and side windows assure comfortable sleeping quarters.

Built of concrete masonry and with walls finished in buff-colored stucco with red concrete tile or cement-asbestos shingle roof, this house will not only be permanent and fire-safe, but will be warm and hospitable in appearance.

however was badly damaged in the attempt to open it.

Local safe expert J. M. Malloy, of South Fourth street, was called to Philipsburg this morning to open the vault at the Hardware Company's office, the door of which had been badly jammed and wrecked.

The burglar visited the Gulich garage about ten minutes to 4 o'clock this morning. He gained an entrance but was heard ransacking the office of the garage by Chester ("Beaney") Hutchinson, the night watchman. When Hutchinson appeared on the scene the burglar aimed a blow at his head with a short iron bar he carried as a "jimmy." Hutchinson threw up his arm to ward off the blow, catching the full force of the iron bar on his forearm.

With that the burglar ran from the garage pursued by Hutchinson. He ran rapidly to where the car was standing on Pine street, hopped in and the car speeded away into the darkness.

Think Same Gang Worked Here Too

Burglars entered the New York Central station last evening and failed in an attempt to open the safe in the ticket office. They proved themselves rank amateurs by attempting to batter the safe door open with a heavy hammer they found in the station. The door of the safe was badly hammered but resisted all efforts to get it open.

The Gingery Hardware Company's building, corner Fourth and Pine streets, was also entered during the night. A pair of hair clippers, a safety razor and several pearl handled pocket knives was among the loot secured.

A visit was also paid by the marauders to the Dufton Hardware Company's store, but Dufton's were unable to determine whether anything of value had been taken from their stock.

The burglars who did the work here, are thought to have been the same pair that made a wholesale raid on Philipsburg business places last evening, as the methods of procedure in both places are identical.

REEDSVILLE CHAPEL BEING REPAIRED

Repairs are being made to the Presbyterian chapel at Reedsville this week, which are designed to make this little church as comfortable as any other in town. Last Sunday on account of the cold and the condition of the heating apparatus, it was impossible to hold services in the chapel. A new heating apparatus is being installed this week and other necessary repairs are being made about the building and all promises to be in good shape for next Sunday.

The good people interested in the chapel are giving a supper this evening at the Reedsville hose house, the proceeds of which will be used in paying for the repairs mentioned and all hose who desire to assist this worthy object should attend.

Miss "Peg" Isenburg was taken quite violently ill at her room at the home of Mrs. Cecil Leavy on Cherry street Sunday night last, and is now a patint at the Clearfield Hospital Her condition is much improved at this time.

mines, with no person at work except the superintendent and the pumper. This is true of a large number of the mines. Many of the small mines are completely out of business.

If a convention at Indianapolis can present any plan which will improve conditions in the mining industry, it will find a hearty welcome in this field, both by miner and operator Advance reports from the western city indicate that the convention will ask for a 20 per cent raise in wages, and six-hour day for five days a week. If such action is taken there, it will be presented at the convention of the local miners, and such changes made as will meet local conditions.

John Brophy, president of District No. 2, whose name has been mentioned as a probable candidate for president of the national organization, left for Indianapolis last week. He has been named as a member of the committee on officers' This committee will meet prior to the assembling of the convention. As a presidential possibility Mr. Brophy's name has been favorably received in many parts of the country and made such an impression that workers from national headquarters have spent considerable time in this field working up sentiment for the retention of President Lewis, who will be a candidate to succeed himself Mr Brophy, as chairman of the national research committee, became well acquainted with many of the progressive members in all parts of the United States.

John Myers was present and asked to have another fire plug installed on William street in the vicinity of the Gearhart Planing mill. Referred to Property Committee.

Firemen Ask For Pamper

Fire Chief A. P Kreher and Assistant Earl Whitehill were before Council on matters of interest to the fire department. They asked that repairs be made to Third Ward chemical tanks, also to the furnaces in both the Third and Fourth Ward fire houses.

Chief Kreher again informed Council that they were without means to get the steamer to fires and asked that some means be secured by which this necessary piece of apparatus could be made mobile. He also said a triple combination pumper, chemical and hose, should be cured for No. 1 Company on account of its central location in the business section of the town. The chief also said that a number of citizens had already spoken to him on the subject and had signified their willingness to contribute toward the purchase of such a piece of apparatus. President Rosser informed the Chief that the matter of this equipment would be given early consideration by Council.

Getting Ready For Spring

The President directed the different committees to get busy on affairs in their department and come to next meeting prepared to assist in formulating the year's improvement budget. In this connection Chairman Beahan of the Highway Department recommended that a new truck be purchased for street work and he was directed to prepare his recommendation as to kind, capacity and price at next meeting, when action would be taken on the matter in order that the equipment might be ready for business when spring opened up.

THE HABIT OF "GOING ALONG"

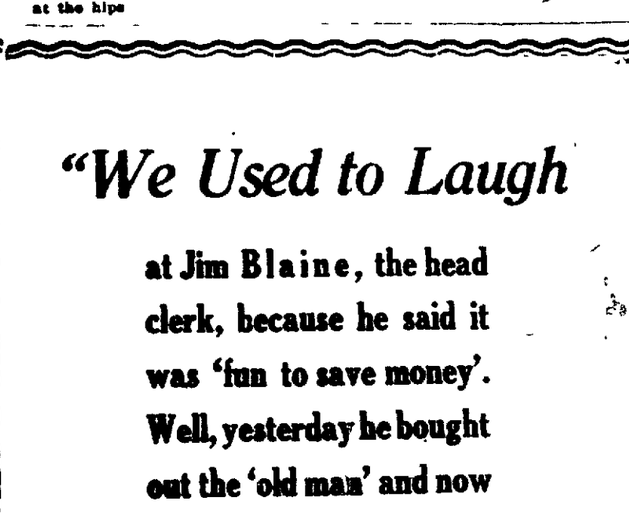
How many men and women really think for themselves? More important still, how many both think and act for themselves? If these questions are pertinent, then they also are important. They strike at the very root of character. They concern not only the individual but the community, the state, the nation. The habit of "going along" is an easy habit to fall into. It is a dangerous habit.

The habit of "going along" retards development of character and lowers efficiency.

This country of ours affords the greatest field in the world for individual achievement. It could not be said that its opportunities as to business and the professions are not appreciated and utilized. In fields of profitable endeavor there is keen rivalry. In those fields individualism is highly developed. The material successes of today, great and small, are relatively greater than ever before. But isn't it true that in the things that concern public morals, civic progress and local and general government, the individualism of the business of the profession is laid aside and almost sole dependence placed on the drift of the crowd, the organization, the party?

Whatever the cause, the nation today has fewer outstanding men in public life than at any time in generations. In the days when the total number of men conspicuous in public service was much smaller, the number of really great minds was relatively much larger. Was it because in earlier times, when education was harder to get, when systematic propaganda was in its infancy, when collective thought more nearly represented individual sense, there was a higher development of character and conscience in things political and civic? There were times when great men could point to their followings rather than to what they followed. That was because they were thinkers, appealing to an age of thinking people.—Yakima Republic.

Waistline Is Important Question



Where shall the waistline be placed this season? A simple question. The answer is even simpler It can't be placed anywhere because it is—fashionably—non existant All lines are straight The side seams are either entirely straight or as nearly so as possible The models sketched show the new silhouette both as it is straight and when the line is broken at the hips

SEE RAISE IN STEEL PRICES SOON

Washington, Jan. 22. (INS.)—The eight-hour day in the steel industry is "working splendidly," Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, told President Coolidge today.

Judge Gary was in Washington and the President invited him to the White House to discuss the effect of the transition from the long to the short work day, a change which was accomplished during the Harding administration.

It was foreast, however, in official circles that steel and steel products will shortly rise in price as a result of the eight-hour day.

BRAEBURN STEEL COMPANY CHANGES

Braeburn, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS.)—Formal announcement of the purchase of the Braeburn Steel Co., here by interests at New Kensington, Blairsville and Latrobe was made here today.

The plant will be operated as a new company under the name of the Braeburn Alloy Steel corporation with these officers:

President, D. T. Sipe, of Latrobe; Vice President, G. H. Neilson, of Pittsburgh; Treasurer, D. W. Yealy of Blairsville and Secretary, A. J. Barnett of Latrobe. The board of directors will include these officers and F. M. Grant of Blairsville. F. Malcolm Graff, S. M. Vockel, of Pittsburgh, and F. E. Pratt, of New Kensington.

The board of Directors will include these officers and F. M. Grant, of Blairsville, F. Malcolm Graff, S. M. Vockel of Pittsburgh and F. E. Pratt of New Kensington.

The plant will start full operation February 15. It will manufacture highspeed steel and high grade tool steel.

LABORITE ASSUMES

Postmaster General — Vernon Hartshorn.

President of the Council—Lord Parmoor.

Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster—Josiah Wedgewood.

Secretary for Scotland—William Adamson.

There will be no women members of the new government although there are eight women members of Commons.

The policies of the new government will be announced when Commons reconvenes Feb. 12.

By DAVID M. CHURCH

London, Jan. 22.—Premier Stanley Baldwin, chief of the Tory Government of Great Britan for nearly eight months, resigned today after the House of Commons had adopted a resolution last night expressing lack of confidence in his cabinet. The Labor Party was summoned into power for the first time in English history.

After Baldwin had visited Buckingham palace where he tendered the resignation of his Government, J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor Party and chief of the opposition in the House of Commons was invited to the palace to receive the designation of Premier.

MacDonald readily accepted the post, knowing in advance that the honor would be his.

Labor came into power at a time when the entire nation is torn with labor strife, the railway locomotive engineers and firemen and some of the coal miners being on strike.

MacDonalds' followers said he would set his face at once toward settling these disputes.

Many of the liberals voted for the Laborites resolution of "No confidence" the result being 328 in favor of it and 256 in opposition.

The final meeting of the old cabinet was held this morning just before Baldwin visited the palace to hand in the resignation of himself and his colleagues.

The House of Commons met this afternoon with Premier-Designate MacDonald in power. However he had not completed the formation of his new Labor Government so it was anticipated that adjournment would be taken for a few weeks to enable the Laborites to formulate not only their government but their policies upon home and foreign questions.

Great Britain realizes that the whole world is watching the experiment being made here. While the dominant party is officially denominated Laborites, many of the newspapers call them Socialists.

Premier-Designate MacDonald said he hoped to present his new Cabinet to King George tomorrow.

Probable Appointees

It was understood that Lord Haldane has definitely accepted the post of Lord Chancellor.

Lord Parmoor will become President of the Council, a post formerly held by Earl Balfour.

Philip Snowden is expected to accept the post of Chancellor of the exchequer.

Arthur Henderson is slated for Home Secretary.

MacDonald and his Laborite colleagues united in assuring the press that nothing radical would be attempted.

"The country can trust us," declared the Premier Designate.

"There is nothing to fear. We realize our responsibilities."

It was anticipated that Commons would not meet again until about February 14.

The situation has been so well discounted that the swing of the Government from the hands of the Tories into the hands of the Labor-Socialist group caused little comment among the public at large.

TRADE RECORD

FUEL FOR THE WORLD'S AUTOMOBILE

The United States the chief gasoline supply for world automobiles and flying machines.

The American horseless vehicle which is so rapidly invading the markets of the world is at the same time drawing its "food supply" from its native country, the United States Figures compiled for the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York show that the exportation of that absolute requirement of the horseless vehicle and flying machine—gasoline—is now nearly 5 times as much as a decade ago The total quantity of gasoline exported in 1913 was a little over 100,000,000 gallons and in 1923 is estimated at about 500,000,000 gallons, the value in 1913 was $17,000,000 and in 1923 approximately $75,000,000

That this demand for our gasoline by the automobiles and flying machines of the foreign world is a permanent one is evidenced by the fact that our exports of gasoline are now much greater than in the biggest year of the war period when the requirements of the military operations in Europe greatly intensified the demand upon us as the world's chief producer of gasoline. While the official export records of the United States now combine the gasoline figures with those of naphtha under the title of "gasoline, naphtha and other light products of distillation," a study of the official figures during the years in which gasoline was separately stated seems to justify an estimate that the 1923 exports of gasoline alone are about 500,000,000 gallons with a value of about $75,000,000

Even this big export of approximately 500,000,000 gallons in 1923, adds the Trade Record, is a small quantity when compared with the figures of total production since the recent census of manufactures shows the quantity produced in the United States in the calendar year 1921 as over 5,000,000,000 gallons, and this suggestion that we consume at home about nine-tenths of our product is in line with the recent statement that about nine-tenths of the world's automobiles are owned in the United States.

These 500,000,000 gallons of gasoline which we are exporting go to every part of the world. Official figures for 1921, the latest year in which gasoline was separately shown in the export record, showe shipments of gasoline to ninety different countries, colonies, and protectorates, including not only the chief countries of every grand division but also many of the smaller and younger political divisions such as Palestine, Kwangtung, Chosen, French Indo-China, Siam, Madagascar, Belgian Congo, Jugo-Slavia, Finland and Iceland. And in all of these countries to which the gasoline is sent it finds American automobiles awaiting its arrival.

Progress Editorial For Women

B. FRANKLIN ON DRESS
By Florence Davies

Poor old B. Franklin! What a jolt he'd get if he were alive today. Just listen to this.

"When I reflect on the interest women take in each other's clothes I cannot conceive you to be human creatures, but a sort of species, hardly a degree above a monkey, who has more diverting tricks than any of you and is an animal less mischievous and expensive."

That statement appeared in a small book by Benjamin Franklin entitled "Reflections on Courtship and marriage" which was recently purchased by the Librarian of The University of Pennsylvania, presumably for its Franklin collection.

The slender volume, one of the three known to be in existence, brought almost three hundred dollars a sum which would doubtless make the eyes of the thrifty old philosopher bulge in their sockets were he alive today.

As to his remarks about women and dress, it's quite evident that he must have missed a good deal of the softer side of life. But whatever he thought of us and our pretty fixings there was no occasion for him to be quite so rough.

But it must be admitted that some women today do come pretty near to meriting his charge. They are the women who make a veritable fetich of clothes, spending most of their waking hours and more than their available cash in the cause of dress.

Perhaps the most pitiable of these is the girl who works eight hours a day in business, and then, like some galley slave, starts all over again the minute she is free on a second day's work, under clothes.

She does it is true, achieve a charming immaculateness and a convincing style. But one wonders if even her enviable air of distinction is quite worth the price she pays for it, in a world which is brimming over with interest and beauty.

The new books in the library, the great singer who comes to town, the reading club or occasional lectures have no part in her life. She is too busy washing blouses and studying style books She has neither time or strength left to go to church, nor money to see a good play Sunday is not a day of rest, but a day of renovating, of basting and pressing and washing and stitching

True enough, this is the price that a woman of small means must pay to appear well dressed But couldn't she appear quite well enough without so much

Old Benjamin Franklin would get no encouragement from us if he were alive to hear it But since he's dead and cannot indulge in further impudence, one ventures to wonder if there might not still be just a grain of truth in his century-old impertinence.

Some time ago Mr. George was asked by an interviewer: "What is your favorite amusement?" The novelist replied: "Loafing about a great city between midnight and dawn." His reason he gave as follows: "At night it is the unexpected happens. The few people about you would be in bed, were it not for some unusual cause; love, purpose of crime, agony of apprehension, or black poverty. Lonely as are the stars, these people seek company; they willingly confide in you, and even enlist you in their schemes." Thus Mr. W. L. George has wandered hundreds of nights in London, Paris, Barcelona, New York, Chicago, etc. He has participated in several exciting adventures which he relates here, altering the names and details for the sake of his strange companions of the night. Three of these adventures actually happened to Mr. George; three are slightly amended. They make up the picture of darkness and passion, which stands behind the face of every great city, and represents a hidden world into which the daring can penetrate.

THE SLIPPER OF RED BROCADE

I

THERE comes a moment in a dance when one has really had enough of it. Such a moment occurred one night at about two o'clock, in the middle of the ball which the Marchioness of Dunmow was giving for her daughter, Angeline. Dunmow House is very large, occupying as it does the site of four houses in Curzon Street. But the acquaintanceship of the marchioness would have been ill-suited by the still more people were coming in, and as nobody was going out, I obtained my coat with ease, and perused just outside, against the railings, enjoying the cold night. Though it was May, frost hung in the air; the sky was of an exquisite pale green, studded with gold by stars; the street, beyond the zone where waited the carriages, shone white under the moon. But the wind stung my face. Fearing a chill, I went rapidly toward the west. Visions of bed and the hope of at last getting my collar off occupied my mind. But man is mad, and after a moment I realized that I wanted a cigaret. Reaching the archway that leads into Shepherd's Market, I hunched myself up to light a match. A cold little wind was blowing, and the match went out. I retreated into the darkness of the archway, but unfortunately the wind curled round into it; here began the tragedy that all men know, fighting a match in the wind. Turn where I would, hunch myself up, or bend down to the ground, every match flared and went out before the tobacco would catch. I was strained and hot, growing more and more determined, seeking corners, as one by one the matches vanished. It took me nearly five minutes to light that cigaret; in the middle of my struggle I was conscious of the sound of a taxi drawing up and moving away past the archway. With a breath of relief I turned to go out, my cigaret well lit; I beheld an extraordinary spectacle.

Before me, a young and apparently beautiful woman, in full evening dress, was engaged in curious antics. At one moment she bent down and called something. At others she took a nimble little run, then ran to the right or left in circles.

At that moment I perceived a fox terrier. I felt stupefied, not being accustomed to seeing in the middle of the night ladies in flame-colored brocade playing with fox terriers in Curzon Street.

"Spot!" said the woman, desperately, "Jack, Jim, come here. Come here, doggie . . . oh, you devil."

I smiled, for now the fox terrier, some little way off, was sitting down, wagging its tail vigorously; he had something in his mouth. The woman seemed in despair. She made a helpless movement with her hands. Evidently she wanted to catch the dog; evidently, too, I must help her. I stepped out of the archway, and, as I so did, pausing uncertainly, she turned to me and said, "Oh, there you are, No. 5 . . . I mean No. 9. Do help me to catch this dog." I came forward, going toward the dog. No. 9? Why did she call me No. 9? She must have expected me at this very spot. Meanwhile, I made attractive noises to the dog, who promptly danced about, full of excitement, making circles round both of us. "Why!" I cried, "he's got a slipper in his mouth."

"Of course he's got a slipper. It's my slipper. It dropped off as I got out of the taxi, and this . . . this . . . this dog picked it up. And he won't give it me back."

I strove to interest the dog, who joined in the game with enthusiasm. Meanwhile my mind was working; she had made a slip; she had called me No. 5, and only after that No. 9. That was because No. 5 was occupying her brain. She must be No. 5. Anyhow, I'd risk it. It wouldn't do any harm. So I said: "It was careless of you, No. 5."

"I know it was," she said, angrily. "Perhaps we'd better not move for a minute. He might drop it."

We watched the fox terrier for a while. The girl asked why she had not seen me before and supposed I had drawn the lot by proxy. Meanwhile, after throwing us a glance of disappointment because we would not go on with the game, the fox terrier had now settled a little way off; far from leaving the slipper, he was beginning to eat it. Then I did a silly thing. Hoping to catch the dog unawares, I shouted and leapt toward him. He started up, alas, taking up the slipper. Nimbly dodging me, he bolted into the archway. I ran into Shepherd's Market, the woman limping behind me. For one moment I thought I had caught the creature, for I touched him, but he rushed between my legs, then into a corner where he left me, for when I turned he had disappeared. Then, in the distance, we heard a clock strike the half hour. The woman made a desperate gesture: "Too late! We can't go after him now."

I was just going to suggest finding her a taxi to drive her home, forgetting the peculiarities of the case, when from the four corners of Shepherd's Market, detached themselves men. They were strange, foreign-looking men, in ready-made clothes, except one, who, like ourselves was dressed in fashionable garb. When they were quite close, the woman in a low tone remarked: "No. 5."

Then men were staring at me. So, determined to see this to the end, I murmured: "No. 9."

"Right," said one of the men in a low tone. "Now, do you mind." I found that a bandage was being slipped over my eyes, but as I had had time to see another handkerchief being made ready to blindfold my companion, I did not resist. Besides, the man in evening clothes volunteered an explanation in the shape of a question: "I suppose your committee always blindfolds friends from another district?"

"Oh, always," said Number 5, saving me a reply.

We were walking on; meanwhile the man in evening clothes talked a little in a low tone: "It's quite as well, you see. Like that, if one committee gets caught, the others don't get taken also. Besides, we haven't far to go." Where we went I still do not know, for our guards followed a cleverly circuitous route, turning us round rapidly, diving into corners and coming out. Perhaps we went three hundred yards, perhaps fifty. Finally I found myself being led into a house. The door closed behind me; my bandage was taken off. I went into a ground floor room from which the street could not be seen as the shutters were up.

Curwensville's Own Column

Sunday Enos Bloom celebrated his 81st birthday at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Erhard. There were four generations present, Mr. and Mrs. Enos Bloom, Mrs. Dr. Parks, Mrs. Erhard and her children. Instead of a turkey dinner, a quarter section of a young porker was served, which all pronounced more than equal to taste than either chicken or turkey. The time Enos arrived, January 20, 1843, there was four feet of snow on the ground. He was born in Pike township about one and one-half miles from New Millport on what is now known as the Potts farm. He is still a vigorous man for his years and the hard knocks at labor in his younger days.

Report reached Curwensville yesterday afternoon to the effect that the Chestnut Ridge school house had burned to the ground. The fire is supposed to have started from a defective flue.

Messrs. Harry Pugh and James Wolfe, both of Morgantown, W. Va., and James Goss of Philipsburg, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bair, Susquehanna avenue.

Annie Catino, a daughter of John Catino, is ill and suffering from a serious attack of heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn Faust, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., arrived in Curwensville Saturday for the purpose of attending the funeral of Mrs. Apgar Bloom.

Messrs. A. P. Way and Tonic Evans two enterprising young men of Du Bois, attended the funeral of Mrs Apgar Bloom on Sunday, the deceased being an aunt of the latter.

Owing to the sudden change of the weather, the High School building could not be heated sufficiently for holding classes yesterday. Little ones who started to school in the morning scantily clad were almost frozen before they reached the building. One little girl was so cold that she was taken into the post office room and worked over by the force. So cold was she that it required a treatment of cold water on limbs and arms to draw out the frost. It was a good half hour before she was able to continue her way. Another lad is reported to have frozen his fingers before reaching school. The lack of heat in the rooms was not the fault of Janitor Weaver, because he spent more than half the night trying to get the building heated.

Rev. Gibson preached in the Methodist Church last evening. He is a good talker and made a fine impression on his congregation. The revival services will be continued throughout the balance of the week.

The writer has been asked a number of times as to the age of Mrs. Apgar Bloom, as it has not appeared in print. Mrs. Bloom's age was 80 years, 10 months and 4 days. She was a daughter of Isaac Graham. Her mother's maiden name was Campbell and she came from Scotland. Apgar Bloom, at his death in 1913, was 81 years, 4 months and 12 days of age.

try estate outside of Moscow and ruled daily by his wife.

An Idol To The Last.

Members of the People's Council of Commissaries (the government of the Federal Socialist Soviet) visited him at intervals for counsel. Sick or well, Lenine remained the idol of the Russian communists.

At the last meeting of the executives of the all-Russian Communist party which ended only last week, a resolution was adopted that Russian youths should be compelled to study the political teachings of Lenine as the basis for the future government of Russia.

While Lenine's influence was felt throughout the entire world he has always remained more or less of an obscure figure.

So long as he could rule and wield power he was content to remain in the background and allow the lesser lights to occupy the limelight.

Triumvirate Rules.

It has long been reported Lenine would be succeeded by a triumvirate. It was a notable circumstance that his death found a virtual triumvirate in power. Zinoviev, head of the Petrograd Soviet, leader of the Third Internationale, and member of the Communist executive committee; Stalin, people's commissar for Minorites (nationalites) in the Soviet government and Leon Kamenev, third vice president of the council, are virtually in power. They are leading the Communist "old guard" against the hostile fation under Trotzky.

For six years Lenine was practically dictator of Russia. Allied powers waged war against him but without success. A notable military failure was the war against Poland when Poland was saved by French troops.

Lenine's real family name was Vladimir Ilyitch Uylanov. He came of a noble family but was banished from Russia because of his nihilist principles. He lived a great part of his life in France and Switzerland. He was living in Switzerland during the world war.

An official communique said:

"Lenine died at Gorky, 30 miles from Moscow, at 6:30 o'clok Monday evening. His wife and sister were at the bedside."

The first public announcement of Lenine's death was made amidst dramatic scenes of grief by President Kalenin of the Russian Federated Republic of Soviets at 4 o'clock this morning at the Bolshoy theatre, where the Soviet congress was in session.

The delegates had assembled to celebrate the anniversary of the first revolutionary outbreak in Petrograd.

Services were planned in honor of fallen "comrades."

Kamenev, Zinoviev, and Stalin appeared upon the stage with tears streaming down their cheeks. Immediately the audience knew something tragic had fallen the nation.

Kalenin advanced to the front of the stage and in broken, halting sentences started to speak.

"Comrades," he cried, trying to make his voice strong but unsuccessfully, "our comrade Ilyitch is no longer with us."

The speaker paused while the audience, men and women, leaned forward in their seats. He resumed:

"Our beloved leader passed away last night. All that is left for us is the glorious teaching he has left behind him."

Kalinen apparently had more in mind to say but could not speak. He bowed slightly and sat down.

The audience sat thunderstruck for a moment. Then a mighty wail went up. Men groaned in their grief, women sobbed. Some of the women delegates fainted.

In the streets military bands marched slowly back and forth playing funeral dirges.

The body will be brought to Moscow tomorrow. It was embalmed today. It will rest in state for several days before interment.

Temperature In the Earth.

Scientists used to think that temperature increased at a fairly regular rate with descent into the earth's crust, and they figured that a temperature would soon be reached where every known substance would be melted. Recent facts have upset this theory. For instance, in a South African mine the temperature at 8,000 feet is only 102 degrees, while in the Kalgoorlie mines of Australia practically no variation of temperature is shown between 1,400 and 2,300 feet. The old earth may be solid, after all.—The National Geographic Magazine.

Sometimes.

Sometimes all that is the matter is that not enough people tell a man how to run his business instead of too many.

Parrots and Eagles Long Lived.

The wren is a short-lived bird, compared with others of its species, its average span of life being but three years. The sparrow is a veteran beside the wren, and often lives for 40 years. But there are other birds which attain much greater ages. Parrots, for instance, often become centenarians while eagles have been known to pass the century mark. The swan, too, is a long liver, there being numerous instances on record of this bird having lived more than 150 years. Classical writers tell of ravens which lived 240 years, but even these birds may be said to have died young when compared with the 700-year-old rooks mentioned by Pliny in his writings.

Oil From Penguins.

The Island of Macquarie lies about half way between the southern coast of Australia and the Antarctic continent. It is uninhabited, but serves as a breeding ground for millions of penguins. Recently it is reported the government of Australia has leased the island to a company which has gone into the business of manufacturing penguin oil, which is produced by digesting the bodies of the birds in huge cauldrons or boilers, in which the pressure of steam is kept at about twenty pounds. The oil is thus brought to the surface and drawn off.

"Cut of Her Jib."

An old Scotch pilot professed to be able to tell the home port of any incoming vessel within a reasonable distance by what seamen still call "the cut of her jib," meaning thereby her general appearance. To test his powers an onlooker called his attention to one in the far distance. The pilot gazed long and earnestly, and eventually pronounced her an Aberdeen boat. He proved to be right, and a chorus of surprised voices inquired how he knew. "No seagull's following her!" he said.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

HOT CHOCOLATE

Boy, today's been one of those days when a steaming mug of hot chocolate touched the right spot. Then, too, one of these mugs of chocolate, served with one of our dainty lunches, was a life saver for many business folks who did not wish to brave the biting wind to go home for lunch. If it's as bad tomorrow, stop in here for lunch.

English Royal Coach at $38,000.

The English royal state coach, which is still in use on ceremonial occasions, is a magnificent vehicle of its kind, and, according to Horace Walpole, cost nearly $38,000, says the Detroit News. The use of coaches is a comparatively recent innovation, for as late as the reign of Queen Elizabeth the English royal family had to be content with a wagon, which was a sort of cart without springs, the body resting solidly on the axle. Before the invention of the coach the most aristocratic ladies were accustomed to ride on pillions fixed on the horse, usually behind some relative or servant.

Helped Relieve Husband's Headache

Because Williams' Anti-Pain Ointment was so effective in relieving her husband's headaches, Mrs. J. E. Wright, 129 West Ormsby Avenue, Louisville, Ky., tells all her friends about the merits of the ointment. "I tried Williams Anti-Pain Ointment as the last resort," she said. "My husband has found quick relief each time the ache occurs."

Hundreds of users of Williams Anti-Pain Ointment say that it quickly relieves rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, headache, tired and aching feet, and kindred pains. It is easily obtained at the corner drugstore in 60c and $1.00 jars. The $1.00 size contains three times as much as the 50c size. Write for free sample or send $1.00 to the Standard Medical Company, Lansford, Pa., for a large size jar.

A GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR PILES

Go to Woodward & McPherson today, hand them 30c and say "I want a jar of San Cura Ointment and if you aren't satisfied your money back.

For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles, at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura Ointment and one 60c jar made a firm and permanent cure. I have not been troubled since."—Rev W. F. Gilbert, Titusville, Pa.

It draws out poison; that's the secret of the wonderful success of San Cura Ointment; that's why it so quickly heals scalds, burns, cuts, bruises and eczema. It's best to use San Cura Soap at all times; it is a great aid in banishing pimples, blackheads and the germs of disease. 25 cents. All druggists.

EVERETT TRUE :-: By Condo

Teapot Dome

from Sinclair's employment because of suspicions of corruption, in connection with the leases.

For years both Roosevelt and Walberg had been right hand men of Sinclair. Walberg had access to the business and private check books of the oil man, which he told Senate public lands committee had been hurriedly taken out of the office just before Sinclair sailed for Paris last Wednesday.

The Department of Justice given full access to the committee's records taken in a year's investigation, has launched a probe of its own into the leasing with a view to possible criminal prosecution, it was learned.

Walberg testified a secret attorney general's aide in the commission room when Roosevelt and Walberg told their amazing stories that led to their resignations.

"Of course the Department of Justice is investigating," Holland said today. "We shall certainly seek criminal prosecution if evidence sufficient to warrant such action is unearthed." He admitted that agents of the department were working on the case, but would not say whether this was requested by the committee, and he refused to state whether he considered the present revelations sufficient.

Statements by Roosevelt and Walberg who was called for additional questioning today, cleared away much of the mystery which has baffled committee members and opened new paths for the committee's probe.

Fall, who repudiated testimony that he had received $100 000 from Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, to buy a ranch in New Mexico, will again be asked by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, directing the inquiry, to appear to explain where he got the money to pay for the ranch and to make extensive improvements on his own ranch. Fall, like New Orleans, announced he had cancelled an ocean voyage.

E. L. Doheny of the Pan American Petroleum Company, which obtained lease to rich naval reserve land in California, is on his way to Washington to testify.

Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, and Representative Garrett, Democrat of Tennessee, declared they would press for adoption of their resolutions demanding cancellation of the leases to Sinclair and Doheny.

Democrats were making "political capital" of the latest Teapot Dome expose and threatened to use this material as one of the paramount issues in the 1924 Presidential campaign. The Democratic national committee launched the first attack with a broadside against Fall.

Several other important witnesses were summoned before the committee today, including Sinclair's general counsel who was charged by Walberg with having taken the oil man's check books from the office to his home. Earl Sinclair, brother of the magnate, bookkeepers and financial advisers in Sinclair's office; and T. J. Johnson foreman of Fall's ranch.

Roosevelt told the committee that Walberg had said to him that "one of the most unpleasant things in the whole affair was a payment of $68 000 to the foreman of Fall's ranch." Walberg later denied this statement saying Roosevelt must have misunderstood him. Theodore Roosevelt Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and Archie's brother, who listened in on a telephon conversation between Archie and Walberg, supported his brother's contention.

According to information received the committee three of the principal figures in the oil leases Fall, Edward L. Doheny, and Col. J. W. Zevely, are now in New Orleans in conference.

Another attack by Senator Walsh on Fall's action in leasing the Elk Hills, Cal., naval reserve to Doheny the Pan American Petroleum Company, was revealed today. It developments are Walsh contemplates a sensation even more startling than revealed in the Teapot Dome [illegible] may be unearthed, the Montana Senator intimated.

Walsh plans to assail the legality of the contract by which Doheny got control of the reserve, said to contain some of the richest oil fields in the world.

A recital of the history of the lease was given by Walsh today.

In March, 1922, the federal government advertised for bids for construction of naval oil reserve tanks, to be paid for out of royalties from oil from naval reserve lands. The project was launched by the Navy Department in order to have oil in tanks immediately available to supply the heavy current demands and for possible emergency use.

Walsh charged that Doheny submitted two bids, one, in accordance with the advertisement, for building the tanks at navy shore stations and a second, offering the government a $200,000 bonus if granted preferential rights on future oil reserve leases.

The second bid Walsh held was illegal, charging it was discriminatory.

Doheny then obtained the lease in December, 1922.

Walsh will quiz both Doheny and Fall regarding the contracts and the leasing provisions.

Find Charred Bodies of Husband And Wife In Philadelphia Fire Ruins

Philadelphia, Jan. 22. (INS—Searching the ruins of a fire which destroyed a hardware store topped by apartments, firemen early today found the charred bodies of a man and his wife. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson, who occupied one of the apartments above the store.

Two firemen were injured trying to rescue the couple. One is believed to have a fractured skull as the result of falling from a second story window.

Damage to the building was estimated at $25,000.

Mrs J. D Connelly, of South Fourth street, is a medical patient at the Clearfield hospital.

Sport News

SCHAEFFER HAS BIG LEAD OVER HOPPE

Chicago, Jan. 22 (INS.)—Jake Schaeffer will meet Willie Hoppe tonight with a 131 point lead over the champion at the start of their second block of 500 in their 1500 point match for the world's 18.2 billiard title.

Schaeffer went the first block 500 to 369 last night. He finished the evening with an unfinished run of 48 and the additional advantage over Hoppe of good position from which to start tonight.

TO HAVE A FAST BASKET BALL TEAM PLAY OSCEOLA SATURDAY NIGHT

Another good sized squad of basketeers were seen in action on the Y. M. C. A. court last evening when a second session was held to pick a team to represent the Association which were present for four teams and some good prospects were sighted during the evening's scrimmage. Tomorrow night these men will get together for a real workout and there is no doubt but that a fast aggregation will be organized. The men which will report will include four ex high school stars in Brown, Howe, Smith and Knepp; Davis, a newcomer, who has played on a number of fast teams throughout the State, McKee, a huskey local center and a number of other local tossers, in Kurtz, Hile, Robinson, Hutchinson and Leitzinger.

Plays, signals and scrimmage will be in order tomorrow night in preparation for Saturday's game. Coach Mitchell and Director Shannon will be on hand to direct activities.

BURNING FLUE AGAIN

The flue at the home of A. B. Maines on Nichols street took a notion to burn out last evening about 6 o'clock. The sparks had been flying out in considerable volume for some time and everything going fine until some son-of-a-gun who seems to think it fun to see the firemen dashing about on their apparatus in zero weather sent in a fire alarm. There was no damage done by the fire and of course nothing for the firemen to do when they got there.

The next person who sends in an alarm when he sees a flue burning out is going to be sentenced to ride on a fire truck for ten or a dozen blocks with the mercury at the zero point. One such trip will cure anybody.

Spring Mode Shows Capes

The cape and dress costume is one of the striking features of the spring styles and is sure to be popular. One model sketched shows the detachable cape of the same material as the dress. The afternoon frock uses the cape for sleeves, omitting all others. The short cape makes an exceedingly graceful line across the back of the dress and breaks the severity of a perfectly straight silhouette.

Dynamiting Mosquitoes

Man has begun to use high explosives in his war against insects. Dynamite, which we usually think of in connection with the destruction of big things, is now being employed against little mosquitoes. It is used to blast these dangerous insects carrying pests out of existence by digging ditches which drain the mosquito breeding grounds.

Petroleum Springs.

The first reference to the discovery of petroleum in America is contained in a letter written in 1629 by Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, a French missionary to the Indians. He had crossed the Niagara river and made his way southward through western New York into northern Pennsylvania where he found a spring from which oil flowed. This oil was highly esteemed by the Indians for medicinal uses. The letter of the priest was published in 1632 in Sagard's "History de Canada."

Snyder Not Satisfied; Will Continue Battle Against Pinchot Code

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22 (INS.)—State Treasurer Snyder will continue his attacks on the constitutionality of separate sections of the administrative code, he announced today. He also asserted he will, as solicitor for Sabuylkill county, contest the right of the state police here to make arrests and then "saddle the costs on the county."

"The decision of the Supreme Court yesterday holding the code constitutional as a whole but raising the question of the legality of some of its parts will give Snyder the opportunity to meet the issues as they arise," he said.

Oldest Historical Tree.

The oldest historical tree (not the oldest tree) is one in Ceylon. It is known to have been planted as a cutting from the Bo tree under which Gautama meditated in the year 245 B. C. From that time to this it has been carefully tended and watered, its great branches are supported by pillars, and the earth has been terraced up about it so that it has been able to put out fresh roots continually.

The Still Small Voice.

Temptation has a still small voice like Conscience and they often hold a debate much to a man's inner disturbance.

NUMETAL WEATHERSTRIPS Would Have Kept Out A Lot of That Cold

Yesterday's wintry blasts found the holes in many a house and especially round the windows and doors in houses that have been built for some time.

NUMETAL WEATHERSTRIPS are so easily applied and are so effective that they would have saved nearly the cost of installation during this one cold snap alone.

They keep out the cold because they make windows and doors tight.

We'll gladly give you an estimate on how little you will add to your investment to have them installed on your home.
